

Constitutional Convention Bid Is Quieter Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some steam appears to be leaking from drives in state legislatures for a constitutional convention on the Supreme Court's one-man-one vote reapportionment decision.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, telling a news conference a month ago that 32 states had petitioned Congress for a convention, predicted there would be petitions soon from two more.

The Constitution says Congress shall call a convention on application from two-thirds of the states — 34 of the 50.

But since Dirksen's prediction, the only state whose legislature has taken any significant action is Alaska. Its Senate rejected April 8 a petition-resolution that had passed the House.

A resolution which passed the Iowa House earlier in the year remains locked up in a State Senate committee, its chances of getting out regarded as dim. Democrats control the Iowa Senate and Democratic Gov. Harold E. Hughes is opposed to the resolution.

The convention question is not basically a partisan matter. But Dirksen has more influence with his party's members everywhere than he does with Democrats.

Dirksen long has tried to undo the 1964 Supreme Court ruling that both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned on the basis of population.

He failed in 1965 and again in 1966 to get Senate approval for a proposed constitutional amendment to permit apportionment of one house of a state legislature along lines other than population.

Delaware, where a resolution recently was introduced, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin are the likeliest prospects now in Dirksen's search for two more convention petitions.

There are resolutions in Senate and House committees in Pennsylvania, Republican Gov. Raymond P. Shafer has given nominal support to the resolutions but there are doubts in Harrisburg that he will push hard. Democrats have a strong minority in the legislature and Shafer needs Democratic votes for key legislation in his state program.

In Wisconsin, there have been some committee hearings. Aides to Sen. William Proxmire, Wisconsin Democrat, say the State Senate might pass a resolution but call House approval doubtful.

The Negro leadership is seeking to dissolve the injunction in U.S. District Court, claiming the order violates constitutional rights of assembly and petition.

At a meeting held before the march, the Rev. A. D. Williams King, brother of Dr. Martin Luther King, promised "to walk the streets until they cut the streets from under us" in pursuit of an ordinance which would prohibit discrimination in the sale or rental of homes.

King said it was within "God's law" to violate the injunction and said "an unjust law is as near nothing as you can find."

"We must let the city and the nation know that we won't accept second-class citizenship when we pay first-class money," he said, and urged the open housing advocates join with the local NAACP in a boycott of downtown stores announced for today.

King said city police like to empty local jails during Kentucky Derby week here, May 1-6, to make room for "obnoxious outsiders." He hinted it would aggravate police if the jails were filled up with civil rights demonstrators.

Of the 125 marchers, about 25 were demonstration "technicians" from Georgia, South Carolina and Chicago.

Police Chief Armando Perez said "a couple of hundred" servicemen and civilians met in the streets. There were reports of fighting but no injuries were reported.

Officers said they were expecting a brawl and called on a squad of Marine shore patrolmen to end the incident after 2½ hours.

Ten servicemen from the Key West Naval Base were arrested for disorderly conduct. Some of the servicemen also were charged with carrying concealed weapons including a .38 caliber pistol, sawed-off baseball bats and lengths of chain.

Officials said the confrontation stemmed from a feud between servicemen and town boys over a girl who dated one of the servicemen.

Adenauer Said Growing Weaker

BONN, Germany (AP) — Former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer grew weaker today after passing a quiet night at his home in the village of Rhodorf.

A medical bulletin said the 91-year-old statesman's "overall condition and that of his lungs has weakened."

The reference to the weakening of the lungs raised speculation that Adenauer's illness—flu and bronchitis—had progressed into pneumonia. He became ill last Wednesday.

Informants said there is grave concern for his life.

A medical team that examined Adenauer Monday afternoon said his condition remained serious "because of his weakened general condition and the state of his lungs."

Airport Proposal Still Stalemated

Pickaway County's controversial airport runway project appears to be in a complete stalemate.

At least this seems to be the interpretation following an inquiry Monday afternoon with the Pickaway County Commissioners. The solons commented they "hadn't even discussed the issue" at yesterday's regular session.

The proposed project of more than two years duration came to a halt two weeks ago after a citizens committee, appointed by the commission to raise local funds, handed the responsibility back to the solons.

The finance committee says its action was based on the commission's decision not to advertise for bids. The solons, on the other hand, have contended the local level money should be available before bids are sought.

LLOYD MELVIN, commission chairman, indicated the governing body is not willing to declare the program a dead issue. However, he noted possibilities for the project continue to appear dim.

The chairman did mention that the commission will accept and evaluate new ideas or approaches to the runway problem. But he noted even this aspect doesn't look encouraging.

A site in Washington Twp. on a tract of land owned by the county and additional acreage under option had been first choice here for several months. The proposal ran into difficulty after an estimate by the county engineer indicated construction cost, along with purchase of the optioned land, would run well in excess of the $100,000 in state aid that could be received.

The latest trend has been toward reviving a joint project with Ross County, although local difficulties have also been encountered there. The commissioners had no comment on this approach either.

In other business, the solons devoted a preliminary look to a survey completed on an improvement and renovation program for the courthouse exterior. The factual study was compiled by the local Dumond-Sifford engineering firm.

Melvin said the survey results will be referred to a building committee, a panel that is required by state law. Serving on this body are the commissioners, probate judge, clerk of courts, sheriff and a citizen representative appointed by the common pleas judge.

OHIO DEMS ASK FOR FULL OBC STORY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Democratic Headquarters called today for a full explanation on the Ohio Bond Commission issue proposed for the May 2 election ballot.

Eugene P. (Pete) O'Grady, headquarters director, accused Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes of dodging questions about the plan, Issue No. 1, on his statewide campaign seeking voter support.

"Because he is selling 'blue sky' and cure-all medicine, he must run rather than be caught by a questioner," O'Grady told a news conference.

"The public is not served by reading each day how many millions the governor has promised," he said, "and then reading the Democrats are against his proposal."

"This is not instructive or helpful to voters in making a rational decision on Issue No. 1."

Chiding newsmen and broadcasters for their coverage of the issue campaign, O'Grady said: "We are not too concerned about your reporting on the issue the way we raise them. However, we'd be satisfied if you will present the analysis of the bond commission as done by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce or the League of Women Voters."

"We'd like to see the newspapers and the electronic media make full presentation of this analysis."

O'Grady distributed a two-page critique of the issue.

RFK Is Against Volunteer Army

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says he opposes an all-volunteer army because "it would lead to an all-black army."

Kennedy expressed his view Monday night during a question and answer period after a speech to a Northwestern University student audience entitled, "Europe and the next generation."

The Massachusetts Democrat is chairman of a Senate subcommittee studying recommendations made to President Johnson for changes in the present draft system. Kennedy was one of the early proponents of a lottery to select men for military service.

Senate Votes To Lower Age Of Retirement

Social Security Benefits Would Start at Age 60

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to lower the Social Security retirement age to 60 for eligible workers willing to swap full-scale benefits for five years of leisure. But some senators view the measure as a tactical move in a separate battle.

Passed 55 to 28 Monday was an amendment by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., that would give those who retire at 60 about 70 per cent of the benefits they would get if they kept working until age 65.

The Byrd amendment was tacked onto the administration's bill to restore major business tax incentives.

Pending as the debate on the tax bill resumes today is action on a proposed amendment to boost Social Security benefits $4 billion a year, raising the minimum monthly payment from $44 to $70.

Some senators saw in the continuing flood of amendments to the tax bill echoes of last week's bitter battle over the presidential election campaign financing law.

Opponents of the campaign law pushed through an amendment to the tax bill repealing the financing plan. But Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., author of the election financing measure and floor manager for the tax bill, pledged a fight to overcome the repealer.

Foes of the finance law believe its backers are trying to load the tax bill down with riders in hopes it might be easier to kill all the amendments when the bill goes to a Senate-House conference committee. The House passed the tax bill with little debate but this is the third week of Senate consideration of the measure.

Byrd's amendment to lower the Social Security retirement age has cleared the Senate twice before. The House always has rejected it in conference.

Widows are the only category now eligible for age 60 retirement. Other women and men may retire at 62 with reduced payments.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-DeI., a co-author of the election financing repealer, urged rejection of Byrd's amendment. But Long supported Byrd.

The $4-billion Social Security increase amendment is sponsored by Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt.

It would increase all monthly checks, although persons receiving smaller benefits would get proportionately larger boosts. The $168 maximum benefit under present law would rise only to $169.70 a month.

Gordon Novel Request Papers Finally Signed

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Acting Gov. C. C. Aycock signed formal papers Monday requesting extradition of Gordon Novel from Columbus, Ohio, on a burglary charge, and instructed they be forwarded to Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes for action.

Novel, 29, one-time New Orleans nightspot operator, was arrested in a Columbus suburb April 1 on a fugitive warrant issued in Louisiana.

Authorities said the papers seeking Novel's return were based on a charge of conspiring to burglarize an oil well drilling firm's munitions bunker at Houma, La.

Earlier, however, a warrant had been issued for Novel as a material witness in New Orleans Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's inquiry into a possible conspiracy in the assassination of President Kennedy.

Novel has been free on $10,000 bond.

Identification Is Made on Body

The body of Lee Holbrook, the man who carried the bomb into Bingham Drugs Saturday, has definitely been identified, according to police.

Making the positive identification was Dr. Raymond Baby, a noted anthropologist at Ohio State University.

Dr. Baby was able to confirm the identity by comparing X-rays of Holbrook taken some years ago. The previous X-rays, which were on file at Berger Hospital, were compared with those taken recently of the body. Dr. Ray Carroll, Pickaway

Home Building Makes Advance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Home building crawled upward during March from February's depressed level and an undisturbed industry painted a rosy picture for the future.

"Builders are optimistic for an upturn about midway, continued improvement through the last half of 1967 and entry into 1968 on a rising note," Leon N. Weiner, president of the National Association of Home Builders, said Monday.

Patrolman Charles Giles, 31, was paralyzed from the waist down because of wounds. Ronald R. Browning, 20, and Donald L. Jenkins, 26, the other escapees, were recaptured unharmed.

Hospital Employees Given Warning

CLEVELAND (AP) — About 500 striking nonprofessional employees at St. Lukes' Hospital were warned by the hospital administration Monday to report for work Wednesday or be replaced.

The strikers, mostly members of Local 47, Building Service and Maintenance Union, struck the 500-bed hospital last Wednesday, seeking union recognition.

Counterfeit Bills

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — The First National Bank of Wilmington reported it received a counterfeit $20 bill in money deposited Monday. The Secret Service in Cincinnati had warned over the weekend that two new batches of phony $20 bills are being circulated in southwestern Ohio.

Both Sides Would Pull Out of DMZ

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam offered anew today to talk peace with Communist North Vietnam and proposed that both sides pull back their forces from the demilitarized zone and de-escalate the war.

A U.S. spokesman said the South Vietnamese government discussed its proposal with U.S. officials before issuing it and the U.S. government welcomed the offer.

The South Vietnamese proposed peace talks amid continuing clashes in the northernmost provinces below the demilitarized zone and as 1,500 Saigon government troops launched a new drive in the Mekong Delta 42 miles southwest of the capital.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces reported 90 of the enemy killed by ground forces and helicopter gunships in clashes near the northern border and about four miles from Hue, the old imperial capital. U.S. losses were three killed and seven wounded, a spokesman said. Government casualties were reported light.

A Vietnamese spokesman said government forces killed 15 Viet Cong guerrillas in the initial hours of the new drive in the Mekong Delta while taking no casualties.

Along the central coastal plains, the spearheads of two South Korean divisions linked up in a drive from the north and from the south to open up a long stretch of the vital coastal Highway 1.

Advance elements of the Korean Tiger Division, driving southward from Song Cau, joined units of the White Horse Division, which had pushed north from Tuy Hoa.

The linkup closed the 37-mile stretch between the two coastal cities and extended the central coastal stretch in allied hands.

Vandals Destroy Historic Bridge

PICKERINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Vandals burned down a 75-year-old covered bridge four miles south of here in Fairfield County Monday night.

The old State Dam Bridge on the Amanda-Northern Road was perhaps the longest covered bridge in Fairfield County which has between 18 and 20 of the old bridges.

The Violet Township Fire Department was called at 5:45 a.m., but the bridge was destroyed when firemen arrived.

Fire Chief Carlton Good said "It had burned from the middle and collapsed from the middle, indicating it was soaked in gasoline or kerosene and then set afire."

Heads Will Be Rolling At Sheraton Park Hotel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some- one fouled up the reservations and the Sheraton Park Hotel management was sorry, it really was.

But the students, all 80 of them, had just arrived by bus from Pawtucket, R.I., and weren't leaving — even if they had to spend the night on the lobby floor of one of Washington's major hotels.

So they sprawled, sat on and around piles of suitcases and otherwise added to the congestion of the busy lobby for the next three hours. Finally, at 9 p.m. Monday, truce was declared and principles were put aside temporarily.

The hotel admitted it had received last October reservations for the Goff Junior High School students. It admitted further it had confirmed the reservations just last week. But something happened. Apparently the reservation office didn't set aside the rooms.

Other arrangements had been made at the Woodner Hotel, the Sheraton Park people explained. Not satisfactory, replied English teacher Joseph P. Kelly. Definitely not satisfactory, concurred Assistant Principal Michael Kenny. Not satisfactory at all, added Principal Leonard Girouard.

So the students sat. Finally resident manager L. Norden Schiebert came to the lobby, explained that a number of guests had failed to check out as expected, but that the hotel would have room for the youngsters this morning.

Whether the floor got hard, or the students more exhausted or the fact that Schiebert promised a $200 reduction in their bill helped end the impasse wasn't learned immediately. Anyway they trooped back to their buses and headed for the Woodner.

Demonstrators In Louisville Hold March

Defy Injunction In Protesting 'Unjust Laws'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Asserting the justness of civil disobedience, about 125 proponents of open housing marched for 2½ hours through Louisville's all-white south section Monday night, in violation of an injunction against night marches issued Friday by a city judge.

At least two Negroes were struck by flying rocks hurled by a jeering crowd from across the street and taken to physicians for treatment. Police packed 18 hecklers into police wagons and made several other arrests.

No marchers were arrested for violating the restraining order. City law director Eugene Alvey said "it would be decided later" if any demonstrators would be cited for contempt of court.

The Negro leadership is seeking to dissolve the injunction in U.S. District Court, claiming the order violates constitutional rights of assembly and petition.

At a meeting held before the march, the Rev. A. D. Williams King, brother of Dr. Martin Luther King, promised "to walk the streets until they cut the streets from under us" in pursuit of an ordinance which would prohibit discrimination in the sale or rental of homes.

Moscow to Tokyo Flight Is Made

TOKYO (AP) — Carrying 106 passengers and a crew of 13, a Soviet TU114 turboprop airliner made the first commercial flight across Siberia from Moscow to Tokyo today.

The plane made the 4,960-mile flight in 10 hours, 14 minutes, about one-fourth the flying time from Europe to the Far East on old routes.

Japan Air Lines and the Soviet airline Aeroflot operated the plane jointly under a recent air agreement and the names of both airlines were inscribed on the fuselage.

Constitutional Convention Bid Is Quieter Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some steam appears to be leaking from drives in state legislatures for a constitutional convention on the Supreme Court's one-man-one vote reapportionment decision.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, telling a news conference a month ago that 32 states had petitioned Congress for a convention, predicted there would be petitions soon from two more.

The Constitution says Con-

The convention question is not basically a partisan matter. But Dirksen has more influence with his party's members everywhere than he does with Democrats.

Dirksen long has tried to undo the 1964 Supreme Court ruling that both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned on the basis of population.

Servicemen, Town Boys Square Off

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Hundreds of servicemen and civilian youths squared off Monday night before police with dogs and helmeted marines with fixed bayonets cleared the streets, officers reported.

Navy officials immediately canceled all leaves and passes for the 10,000 servicemen on the base.

Ohio Dems Ask for Full OBC Story

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Democratic Headquarters called today for a full explanation on the Ohio Bond Commission issue proposed for the May 2 election ballot.

Eugene P. (Pete) O'Grady, headquarters director, accused Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes of dodging questions about the plan, Issue No. 1, on his statewide campaign seeking voter support.

"Because he is selling 'blue sky' and cure-all medicine, he must run rather than be caught by a questioner," O'Grady told a news conference.

"The public is not served by reading each day how many millions the governor has promised," he said, "and then reading the Democrats are against his proposal."

Identification Is Made on Body

The body of Lee Holbrook, the man who carried the bomb into Bigman Drugs Saturday, has definitely been identified, according to police.

Making the positive identification was Dr. Raymond Baby, a noted anthropologist at Ohio State University.

Dr. Baby was able to confirm the identity by comparing X-rays of Holbrook taken some years ago. The previous X-rays, which were on file at Berger Hospital, were compared with those taken recently of the body. Dr. Ray Carroll, Pickaway

County Coroner, said today that characteristics of the pelvic bone were identical.

Dr. Carroll explained that characteristics of the pelvis are as individualistic as fingerprints.

Both the X-rays taken of the body and the X-rays on file were good pictures of the area where the comparison for identification was made, authorities said.

The Mader Funeral Home has not yet been contacted by the family concerning arrangements.

In Retrospect

MANY LOCAL business people are planning to be present for joint funeral services 10:30 a. m. Wednesday at the First Methodist Church for Charles Schieber and Ted Foster, both lost in the disaster . . . The same observance is expected for Mrs. Charles Willison, a Bigman employee . . . Her services are scheduled 2:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Mader Funeral Home . . . Services for Mrs. Lawrence Lagore, another employee, were held 10:30 a. m. today in the First EUB Church.

REPORTS and stories concerning Saturday's fateful explosion-fire are still filtering in here . . . Comments on what happened prior to, during and after the devastating blast probably will be heard for days to come.

ALTHOUGH the entire community is in a depressed mood, the objective now is to seek full recovery from sad experience . . . We feel the survivors of those lost would want it this way, as would the victims themselves.

FUTURE plans for the devastated area undoubtedly will be resolved in time . . . There are numerous possibilities, including a rebuilding program.

THE CIRCLEVILLE Area Chamber of Commerce already has started the machinery rolling for establishment of a Memorial Fund for those lost . . . Gifts will be administered by a group of trustees composed of those closely associated with the deceased.

THREE Circleville High School sophomores, all 16, were lunching at Bigman's Saturday after a morning's hard work on a Service Over Self Club project . . . They changed seats because they smelled the fumes from the bomb . . . A second later the blast hurled them off their stools on top of each other . . . The girls were Nancy Butts, Sandra Jeffries and Sally Long . . . They made their way out of the store even then filled with black smoke . . . Nancy Butts called her mother, Mrs. Henry Butts, who had

WASHINGTON (AP) — Home building crawled upward during March from February's depressed level and an undisturbed industry painted a rosy picture for the future.

"Builders are optimistic for an upturn about midway, continued improvement through the last half of 1967 and entry into 1968 on a rising note," Leon N. Weiner, president of the National Association of Home Builders, said Monday.

But the students, all 80 of them, had just arrived by bus from Pawtucket, R.I., and weren't leaving — even if they had to spend the night on the lobby floor of one of Washington's major hotels.

So they sprawled, sat on and around piles of suitcases and, otherwise added to the congestion of the busy lobby for the next three hours. Finally, at 9 p.m. Monday, truce was declared and principles were put aside temporarily.

The hotel admitted it had received last October reservations for the Goff Junior High School students. It admitted further it had confirmed the reservations just last week. But something happened. Apparently the reservation office didn't set aside the rooms.

Other arrangements had been made at the Woodner Hotel, the Sheraton Park people explained. Not satisfactory, replied English teacher Joseph P. Kelly. Definitely not satisfactory, concurred Assistant Principal Michael Kenny. Not satisfactory at all, added Principal Leonard Giourard.

So the students sat. Finally resident manager L. Norden Schiebier came to the lobby, explained that a number of guests had failed to check out as expected, but that the hotel would have room for the youngsters this morning.

Whether the floor got hard, or the students more exhausted or the fact that Schiebier promised a $200 reduction in their bill helped end the impasse wasn't learned immediately. Anyway they trooped back to their buses and headed for the Woodner.

Both Sides Would Pull Out of DMZ

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam offered anew today to talk peace with Communist North Vietnam and proposed that both sides pull back their forces from the demilitarized zone and de-escalate the war.

A U.S. spokesman said the South Vietnamese government discussed its proposal with U.S. officials before issuing it and the U.S. government welcomed the offer.

The South Vietnamese proposed peace talks amid continuing clashes in the northernmost provinces below the demilitarized zone and as 1,500 Saigon government troops launched a new drive in the Mekong Delta 42 miles southwest of the capital.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces reported 90 of the enemy killed by ground forces and helicopter gunships in clashes near the northern border and about four miles from Hue, the old imperial capital. U.S. losses were three killed and seven wounded, a spokesman said. Government casualties were reported light.

A Vietnamese spokesman said government forces killed 15 Viet Cong guerrillas in the initial hours of the new drive in the Mekong Delta while taking no casualties.

Along the central coastal plains, the spearheads of two South Korean divisions linked up in a drive from the north and from the south to open up a long stretch of the vital coastal Highway 1.

Advance elements of the Korean Tiger Division, driving southward from Song Cau, joined units of the White Horse Division, which had pushed north from Tuy Hoa.

The linkup closed the 37-mile stretch between the two coastal cities and extended the central coastal stretch in allied hands.

Vandals Destroy Historic Bridge

PICKERINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Vandals burned down a 75-year-old covered bridge four miles south of here in Fairfield County Monday night.

The old State Dam Bridge on the Amanda-Northern Road was perhaps the longest covered bridge in Fairfield County which has between 18 and 20 of the old bridges.

The Violet Township Fire Department was called at 5:45 a.m., but the bridge was destroyed when firemen arrived.

Fire Chief Carlton Good said "It had burned from the middle and collapsed from the middle, indicating it was soaked in gasoline or kerosene and then set afire."

Heads Will Be Rolling At Sheraton Park Hotel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some one fouled up the reservations and the Sheraton Park Hotel management was sorry, it really was.

But the students, all 80 of them, had just arrived by bus from Pawtucket, R.I., and weren't leaving — even if they had to spend the night on the lobby floor of one of Washington's major hotels.

So they sprawled, sat on and around piles of suitcases and, otherwise added to the congestion of the busy lobby for the next three hours. Finally, at 9 p.m. Monday, truce was declared and principles were put aside temporarily.

Demonstrators In Louisville Hold March

Defy Injunction In Protesting 'Unjust Laws'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Asserting the justness of civil disobedience, about 125 proponents of open housing marched for 2½ hours through Louisville's all-white south section Monday night, in violation of an injunction against night marches issued Friday by a city judge.

At least two Negroes were struck by flying rocks hurled by a jeering crowd from across the street and taken to physicians for treatment. Police packed 18 hecklers into police wagons and made several other arrests.

No marchers were arrested for violating the restraining order. City law director Eugene Alvey said "it would be decided later" if any demonstrators would be cited for contempt of court.

The Negro leadership is seeking to dissolve the injunction in U.S. District Court, claiming the order violates constitutional rights of assembly and petition.

At a meeting held before the march, the Rev. A. D. Williams King, brother of Dr. Martin Luther King, promised "to walk the streets until they cut the streets from under us" in pursuit of an ordinance which would prohibit discrimination in the sale or rental of homes.

King said it was within "God's law" to violate the injunction and said "an unjust law is as near nothing as you can find."

"We must let the city and the nation know that we won't accept second-class citizenship when we pay first-class money," he said, and urged the open housing advocates join with the local NAACP in a boycott of downtown stores announced for today.

King said city police like to empty local jails during Kentucky Derby week here, May 1-6, to make room for "obnoxious outsiders." He hinted it would aggravate police if the jails were filled up with civil rights demonstrators.

Of the 125 marchers, about 25 were demonstration "technicians" from Georgia, South Carolina and Chicago.

Moscow to Tokyo Flight Is Made

TOKYO (AP) — Carrying 105 passengers and a crew of 13, a Soviet TU114 turboprop airliner made the first commercial flight across Siberia from Moscow to Tokyo today.

The plane made the 4,960-mile flight in 10 hours, 14 minutes, about one-fourth the flying time from Europe to the Far East on old routes.

Japan Air Lines and the Soviet airline Aeroflot operated the plane jointly under a recent air agreement and the names of both airlines were inscribed on the fuselage.

a distance of 235 miles from Qui Nhon to Tan Lam.

The drive, the South Koreans' biggest operation of the war, started March 8, and some 10,000 Korean troops from the two divisions were deployed in it. The Koreans have claimed killing 830 Communist troops and capturing 417.

The South Vietnamese peace offer was contained in a communiqué from the Foreign Ministry which welcomed peace proposals put forth April 11 by Canada. The communiqué broadly paralleled the four-stage Canadian proposals.

The Vietnamese government said it welcomed "all efforts to bring about peace in Vietnam and proposes specific courses of action such as the pullback from the demilitarized zone, inspection by the International Control Commission, further de-escalation of the conflict and talks, secret or otherwise."

"The government of the Republic of Vietnam," the communiqué said, "stands ready at any time to meet with or contact the Hanoi authorities either directly or through the good offices of a third party such as Canada."

The Canadian proposals called for "some disengagement, possibly in the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam, together with a cessation of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam and of Communist infiltration of the South, (2) freezing military action in South Vietnam at the present level, (3) cessation of all hostilities, and (4) withdrawal of forces on either side of the 17th Parallel.

The South Vietnamese gave no distance for the pullback they proposed from the six-mile-wide demilitarized zone which straddles the 17th Parallel.

U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops continued bulldozing a cleared strip below the eastern part of the zone. The United States has been shifting its forces to provide reinforcements in the northern provinces just below the zone.

Alfalfa Pest

Population

Is High

The alfalfa weevil population is heavy enough in Pickaway County for farmers to begin spraying their legume fields, County Agent George Hamrick announced today.

Warm weather has been responsible for an earlier and larger than expected hatch of the destructive weevil in central Ohio.

Hamrick has viewed some fields that show 80 per cent damage to the terminal leaves. He noted that spraying should be done when damage is estimated at 75 per cent.

Hamrick noted that any of several recommended insecticides would efficiently control the infestation.

He emphasized that the recommendations of the manufacturer for application should be followed closely.

Class Play

Comedy Due

Wednesday

The Logan Elm Senior Class play, "Holy Meteors," will be staged Wednesday in the school auditorium.

A farce comedy in three acts, setting for the play is the living-room of the Stillwell home in a small college town, anywhere, U.S.A. The time is the present, early in September.

Centering around Clarence Stillwell, the plot involves an inquisitive freshman and his family. His scientific hobbies continually bring silver to his mother's hair, lines to his father's brow, concern to his sisters, excitement for the neighbors and laughter for everyone.

As his latest project, "Einstein" Stillwell has built a radio transmitter of unusual power in an effort to reach Mars. He's convinced someone lives there.

His family is proud of him for it's a complex piece of equipment, but the local radio and television keep picking up "Einstein" as he calls out across space, "Come in, Mars."

No radio or TV station tune is safe from sudden blasts of "Come in, Mars" on their frequencies and it causes no end of worry and embarrassment for his parents and sisters.

Senate Attitude

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said today the Soviet Union has made "a new ball game" of proposals to boost East-West trade by agreeing with Communist China to step up the flow of war materials to North Vietnam.

"This puts a new light on President Johnson's recommendation for legislation to authorize freer trade with the Soviets," Dirksen said. "I don't think Congress is going to be very happy to do that at a time when the Russians are increasing military help for the North Vietnamese."

U.S. officials disclosed last week that the Soviets and Communist Chinese had reached agreement on handling of Soviet shipments to North Vietnam. The Soviets earlier publicly accused China of holding up supplies intended for use in the war.

Dirksen said in an interview he is convinced a majority of both houses now opposes any relaxation of trade barriers, although Johnson has said this would not affect the system of controls on export of strategic goods.

"Who can say with any certainty what is strategic and what is not?" Dirksen asked. "Anything we may sell them could permit them to divert more of their industry to making war goods."

Dirksen said weekend antiwar demonstrations in New York City and San Francisco are likely to strengthen the position of those in Congress who want the war prosecuted more vigorously. Few among them will favor any East-West trade increase under such circumstances, he said.

In line with this, Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., told the Senate Monday there should be no expansion of trade until the Vietnam shooting stops. He said he couldn't understand proposals for such increases at a time the Soviet Union and Communist China are pouring supplies into North Vietnam.

Cotton's statement signaled powerful opposition to a move by Sens. Thurston R. Morton, R-Ky., and Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., to drum up bipartisan support for the lowering of East-West trade barriers.

Magnuson, who heads the Senate Commerce Committee, and Morton, its second-ranking Republican, took the unusual step last week of announcing in a joint statement that the panel soon will begin East-West trade hearings.

Morton thus defied around Cotton, who is the top-ranking Republican on the committee. Cotton made it plain he didn't like it.

Dodd Action

Is Pondered

By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) —

The Senate Ethics Committee has tentatively decided that censure or condemnation — and possibly both — is the punishment it will recommend for Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, sources close to the panel report.

Meeting privately in a hideaway office at the Capitol, the bipartisan committee which investigated misconduct charges against the Connecticut Democrat has abandoned all other possible forms of rebuke, these sources said.

Earlier this month it was learned the committee would recommend neither expulsion nor exoneration of Dodd. The full Senate makes the final decision.

The six-member Select Committee on Standards and Conduct resumes its secret deliberations today, which one source said are reaching the climactic stage.

The committee reportedly is still debating which term — censure or condemn — is the stronger and whether the stronger should be used.

Knowledgeable sources willing to discuss the committee deliberations — and they were few — refused to indicate which aspects of Dodd's conduct would be specified as the basis for proposed Senate punishment.

In two sets of open hearings, the committee has heard testimony on Dodd's financial affairs and his relationship with Chicago public relations man Julius Klein, once a registered agent for West German business interests.

Dodd has been accused of: —Converting to his personal use the proceeds of testimonial dinners which raised nearly $190,000. Dodd has acknowledged he used testimonial money to pay off debts and meet what he called "personal-political expenses."

But he has insisted the testimonial donors intended the money as a personal gift, to be used as he saw fit, not as political contributions.

Billing the Senate for official travels, and charging his expenses to private organizations as well, thus receiving double reimbursement. Dodd has blamed this on a bookkeeper-turned-accuser, whom he accused of sloppy work.

Using his position as a senator to help Klein keep West German business clients. Dodd has denied any impropriety in his relationship with Klein.

Senate sources said that at this point the Ethics Committee is sifting through the testimony and evidence amassed during more than a year of investigation.

The deliberations were said to have been marked in part by disagreement over the impact of the two words, censure and condemn.

One source said there is a difference of opinion, not only on which word would constitute the stronger rebuke, but, once that can be determined, on whether the stronger word is indeed preferable.

Man Pleads Guilty

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Mack H. Jones, 66, pleaded guilty Monday of first-degree manslaughter in the shooting death of his wife last December. He was given a 1-20 year prison term. He originally was charged with second degree murder.

UC Emeritus Honored

CINCINNATI (AP) — Dr. Gustav Eckstein, University of Cincinnati professor emeritus of physiology, will receive the William Howard Taft Medal for notable achievement from UC's alumni association at its annual UC Day banquet Thursday.

Gov. James A. Rhodes will be the banquet speaker.

Scout Council Meet Scheduled

About 300 persons are expected in Greenfield (Highland County) April 24 for the spring Delegate Council meeting of Seal of Ohio Girl Scout Council, Inc.

The Delegate Council is the governing body of the organization, which serves 27,000 girls in numerous central Ohio counties. Over 7,000 adult volunteers guide the program.

Highlight of the spring meeting will be the announcement and investiture of Seal of Ohio "Piper," according to Council president, Mrs. E. M. Erickson of (2080 Cheshire Road), Columbus.

The Piper Project, she explained, is a nationwide membership program to reach and keep girls. The project was so named because "the Piper image in fact and fiction is that of one who calls people to follow to fun and adventure," she said.

Seal of Ohio Council serves Pickaway, as well as 16 other counties in the state.

Five Treated At Hospital

Five patients were treated Monday in the Berger Hospital Emergency Room.

Julie Edwards, 2½, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Edwards of 122 Hayward Ave., fell from her tricycle and struck her head.

Clarence England, 132 Logan St., had a foreign body removed from his right eye.

Paul Cunningham, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cunningham, Route 2, Ashville sustained lacerations of the head when he fell from a horse trailer.

Edward Dumm, 1032 Mulberry Road, pulled a muscle in his left leg when playing baseball in his backyard.

Gary McCain, 367 E. Mound St., lacerated his right middle finger on a cutting knife while working at Owens-Illinois.

PM Markets Stays Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — Motors faltered in their leadership but the over-all stock market remained higher early this afternoon.

Chrysler, which rose 2 points as the most active stock on Monday, was down about a point. Ford and General Motors lost fractions.

Recent strength in the market was partly explained by analysts as being in recognition of the fact that many stocks, by their previous declines, had fully "discounted" the actual news reports of lower first quarter earnings, and could now rise in expectation of improvement in earnings later this year.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.79 at 870.38.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .7 at 321.2 with industrials up 1.2, rails unchanged and utilities up .6.

a distance of 235 miles from Qui Nhon to Tan Lam.

The drive, the South Koreans' biggest operation of the war, started March 8, and some 10,000 Korean troops from the two divisions were deployed in it. The Koreans have claimed killing 830 Communist troops and capturing 417.

The South Vietnamese peace offer was contained in a communiqué from the Foreign Ministry which welcomed peace proposals put forth April 11 by Canada. The communiqué broadly paralleled the four-stage Canadian proposals.

The Vietnamese government said it welcomed "all efforts to bring about peace in Vietnam and proposes specific courses of action such as the pullback from the demilitarized zone, inspection by the International Control Commission, further de-escalation of the conflict and talks, secret or otherwise."

"The government of the Republic of Vietnam," the communiqué said, "stands ready at any time to meet with or contact the Hanoi authorities either directly or through the good offices of a third party such as Canada."

The Canadian proposals called for "some disengagement, possibly in the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam, together with a cessation of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam and of Communist infiltration of the South, (2) freezing military action in South Vietnam at the present level, (3) cessation of all hostilities, and (4) withdrawal of forces on either side of the 17th Parallel.

The South Vietnamese gave no distance for the pullback they proposed from the six-mile-wide demilitarized zone which straddles the 17th Parallel. U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops continued bulldozing a cleared strip below the eastern part of the zone. The United States has been shifting its forces to provide reinforcements in the northern provinces just below the zone.

Alfalfa Pest Population Is High

The alfalfa weevil population is heavy enough in Pickaway County for farmers to begin spraying their legume fields, County Agent George Hamrick announced today.

Warm weather has been responsible for an earlier and larger than expected hatch of the destructive weevil in central Ohio.

Hamrick has viewed some fields that show 80 per cent damage to the terminal leaves. He noted that spraying should be done when damage is estimated at 75 per cent.

Hamrick noted that any of several recommended insecticides would efficiently control the infestation.

He emphasized that the recommendations of the manufacturer for application should be followed closely.

Man Bound to Jury Under $1,000 Bond

James Donaldson, Pleasant Ridge, Ky., accused of fraudulently securing a mortgage with property belonging to another person, has been bound to the next session of the Pickaway County Grand Jury under $1000 bond.

The charge was filed in Circleville Municipal Court by Robert Dixon. Acting Judge Lemuel Weldon was on the bench.

Class Play Comedy Due Wednesday

The Logan Elm Senior Class play, "Holy Meteors," will be staged Wednesday in the school auditorium.

A farce comedy in three acts, setting for the play is the living-room of the Stillwell home in a small college town, anywhere, U.S.A. The time is the present, early in September.

Centering around Clarence Stillwell, the plot involves an inquisitive freshman and his family. His scientific hobbies continually bring silver to his mother's hair, lines to his father's brow, concern to his sisters, excitement for the neighbors and laughter for everyone.

As his latest project, "Einstein" Stillwell has built a radio transmitter of unusual power in an effort to reach Mars. He's convinced someone lives there.

His family is proud of him for it's a complex piece of equipment, but the local radio and television keep picking up "Einstein" as he calls out across space, "Come in, Mars."

No radio or TV station town is safe from sudden blasts of "Come in, Mars" on their frequencies and it causes no end of worry and embarrassment for his parents and sisters.

East-West Trade Seen In New Light

Soviet Arms Aid To Hanoi Alters Senate Attitude

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said today the Soviet Union has made "a new ball game" of proposals to boost East-West trade by agreeing with Communist China to step up the flow of war materials to North Vietnam.

"This puts a new light on President Johnson's recommendation for legislation to authorize freer trade with the Soviets," Dirksen said. "I don't think Congress is going to be very happy to do that at a time when the Russians are increasing military help for the North Vietnamese."

U.S. officials disclosed last week that the Soviets and Communist Chinese had reached agreement on handling of Soviet shipments to North Vietnam. The Soviets earlier publicly accused China of holding up supplies intended for use in the war.

Dirksen said in an interview he is convinced a majority of both houses now opposes any relaxation of trade barriers, although Johnson has said this would not affect the system of controls on export of strategic goods.

"Who can say with any certainty what is strategic and what is not?" Dirksen asked. "Anything we may sell them could permit them to divert more of their industry to making war goods."

Dirksen said weekend antiwar demonstrations in New York City and San Francisco are likely to strengthen the position of those in Congress who want the war prosecuted more vigorously. Few among them will favor any East-West trade increase under such circumstances, he said.

In line with this, Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., told the Senate Monday there should be no expansion of trade until the Vietnam shooting stops. He said he couldn't understand proposals for such increases at a time the Soviet Union and Communist China are pouring supplies into North Vietnam.

Cotton's statement signaled powerful opposition to a move by Sens. Thurston R. Morton, R-Ky., and Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., to drum up bipartisan support for the lowering of East-West trade barriers. Magnuson, who heads the Senate Commerce Committee, and Morton, its second-ranking Republican, took the unusual step last week of announcing in a joint statement that the panel soon will begin East-West trade hearings.

Morton thus detoured around Cotton, who is the top-ranking Republican on the committee. Cotton made it plain he didn't like it.

THE ANNUAL Spring Carnival and Fun Night will be April 21 conducted as originally planned at Washington Twp. School . . . The sponsoring PTO at first planned to postpone the event in respect and sympathy for those of their membership involved in Saturday's tragedy . . . The decision to proceed with the carnival was made after discussions with the families concerned and program chairmen.

The Knights of Columbus have completed preparations for the annual Knight of the Year dinner and dance, according to Grand Knight Tom Shea.

The event will be the highlight of the season for the Knights and their ladies. It will be held at the L & K Restaurant banquet room Saturday, with music by the Luther Bolen Orchestra of Chillicothe.

The winner of last year's Knight of the Year award was Roscoe Gates of 290 Lewis Road. He reports the balloting for this year's award winner is now complete and the dinner-dance is being planned around the 1967 award presentation.

Any Knights who have not made their reservation are urged to call Richard Theis, at 474-2833.

Speck Returned To Chicago Jail

CHICAGO (AP) — Richard Speck, convicted Saturday of murdering eight nurses, was confined today in the Cook County jail 22 feet from the electric chair from which his attorney hopes to save him.

Speck was returned to a maximum security cell after a 160-mile ride to Chicago from Peoria, Ill., Monday. His trial was heard in Peoria on a defense plea that jurors from Chicago, where the eight young women were killed and strangled July 14, would be prejudiced against Speck.

A jury of seven men and five women convicted him Saturday in Peoria and recommended execution.

Best Newsboys Are Honored

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Ohio Circulation Managers Association has selected Gary Boggs, 14, of Plain City, and Paul Munn, 17, of Swanton, as the Buckeye State's best newsboys.

The youths beat out some 50,000 other carriers, and received awards of $200 each Monday night at the group's annual Banquet. Boggs carries The Columbus Dispatch and Munn The Toledo Blade.

Dodd Action Is Pondered By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Ethics Committee has tentatively decided that censure or condemnation — and possibly both — is the punishment it will recommend for Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, sources close to the panel report.

Meeting privately in a hideaway office at the Capitol, the bipartisan committee which investigated misconduct charges against the Connecticut Democrat has abandoned all other possible forms of rebuke, these sources said.

Earlier this month it was learned the committee would recommend neither expulsion nor exoneration of Dodd. The full Senate makes the final decision.

The six-member Select Committee on Standards and Conduct resumes its secret deliberations today, which one source said are reaching the climactic stage.

The committee reportedly is still debating which term — censure or condemn — is the stronger and whether the stronger should be used.

Knowledgeable sources willing to discuss the committee deliberations — and they were few — refused to indicate which aspects of Dodd's conduct would be specified as the basis for proposed Senate punishment.

In two sets of open hearings, the committee has heard testimony on Dodd's financial affairs and his relationship with Chicago public relations man Julius Klein, once a registered agent for West German business interests.

Dodd has been accused of:

—Converting to his personal use the proceeds of testimonial dinners which raised nearly $100,000. Dodd has acknowledged he used testimonial money to pay off debts and meet what he called "personal-political expenses."

But he has insisted the testimonial donors intended the money as a personal gift, to be used as he saw fit, not as political contributions.

Billing the Senate for official travel, and charging his expenses to private organizations as well, thus receiving double reimbursement. Dodd has blamed this on a bookkeeper-turned-accuser, whom he accused of sloppy work.

Using his position as a senator to help Klein keep West German business clients. Dodd has denied any impropriety in his relationship with Klein.

Senate sources said that at this point the Ethics Committee is sifting through the testimony and evidence amassed during more than a year of investigation.

The deliberations were said to have been marked in part by disagreement over the impact of the two words, censure and condemn.

One source said there is a difference of opinion, not only on which word would constitute the stronger rebuke, but, once that can be determined, on whether the stronger word is indeed preferable.

Man Pleads Guilty

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Mack H. Jones, 66, pleaded guilty Monday of first-degree manslaughter in the shooting death of his wife last December. He was given a 1-20 year prison term. He originally was charged with second degree murder.

Five Treated At Hospital

Five patients were treated Monday in the Berger Hospital Emergency Room.

Julie Edwards, 2 1/2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Edwards of 122 Hayward Ave., fell from her tricycle and struck her head.

Clarence England, 132 Logan St., had a foreign body removed from his right eye.

Paul Cunningham, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cunningham, Route 2, Ashville sustained lacerations of the head when he fell from a horse trailer.

Edward Dumm, 1032 Mulberry Road, pulled a muscle in his left leg when playing baseball in his backyard.

Gary McCain, 367 E. Mount St., lacerated his right middle finger on a cutting knife while working at Owens-Illinois.

PM Markets Stays Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — Motors faltered in their leadership but the over-all stock market remained higher early this afternoon.

Chrysler, which rose 2 points as the most active stock on Monday, was down about a point. Ford and General Motors lost fractions.

Recent strength in the market was partly explained by analysts as being in recognition of the fact that many stocks, by their previous declines, had fully "discounted" the actual news reports of lower first quarter earnings, and could now rise in expectation of improvement in earnings later this year.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.79 at 870.38.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .7 at 321.2 with industrials up 1.2, rails unchanged and utilities up .6.

Scout Council Meet Scheduled

About 300 persons are expected in Greenfield (Highland County) April 24 for the spring Delegate Council meeting of Seal of Ohio Girl Scout Council, Inc.

The Delegate Council is the governing body of the organization, which serves 27,000 girls in numerous central Ohio counties. Over 7,000 adult volunteers guide the program.

Highlight of the spring meeting will be the announcement and investiture of Seal of Ohio "Piper," according to Council president, Mrs. E. M. Erickson of (2080 Cheshire Road), Columbus.

The Piper Project, she explained, is a nationwide membership program to reach and keep girls. The project was so named because "the Piper image in fact and fiction is that of one who calls people to follow to fun and adventure," she said.

Seal of Ohio Council serves Pickaway, as well as 16 other counties in the state.

UC Emeritus Honored

CINCINNATI (AP)—Dr. Gustav Eckstein, University of Cincinnati professor emeritus of physiology, will receive the William Howard Taft Medal for notable achievement from UC's alumni association at its annual UC Day banquet Thursday.

Gov. James A. Rhodes will be the banquet speaker.

I Q. Shots in Store?

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments by a sidewalk Socrates:

What would happen if actress Jayne Mansfield were given an injection from the brain of the late mathematician, Dr. Albert Einstein?

Might it help make her figure better?

This and many another conjecture has been raised by two scientific experiments which indicate that specific information can be transmitted from one creature to another by brain extract injections.

The experiments at Baylor University's College of Medicine and Queens College of the city of New York were done on mice.

The problem for the mice was to learn their way out of a maze. Evidence was found that beginning mice solved the problem quicker when given injections of brain extract from other mice who had earlier learned the best way out of the maze.

Naturally, if this be true on a broad scale, it is too good a technique to limit to mice. If it helps them get out of a maze, why can't it also help people solve the problems of the human rat race?

The Business World

EDITORS: This is the second of two articles based on interviews with David Lillenthal, whose private company, Development and Resources Corp., is studying ways to develop the South Vietnamese economy.

NEW YORK (AP) — Having headed the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Atomic Energy Commission, David Lillenthal-long-range development of South Vietnam — a job he regards as his biggest yet.

Lillenthal's chairmanships of TVA and AEC were public jobs. The South Vietnam job is as a private citizen, for Lillenthal now is head of a development company he founded in 1955 with Gordon Clapp, also a former TVA chairman.

This company, Development and Resources Corp., accepted the job early this year at the invitation of President Johnson and will work on a cost-plus contract with the U.S. Agency for International Development.

DR will have its counterpart in Vietnam, a group headed by economists and planners.

"Since they are Vietnamese they understand the culture," said Lillenthal in an interview. "This is very important. In some things they'll train us. In others, perhaps we'll train them."

Already a survey is being made to see what can be done to make the social, commercial and physical resources of the country serve the people better, in an integrated rather than piecemeal pattern.

Priorities will be selected after the survey, with the emphasis on positive, practical action, for DR is reluctant to accept jobs that lead only to reports.

Although at this early stage Lillenthal is unwilling to forecast just what the Vietnam job may involve, immediate and special problems could include salt water contamination, rice culture, schools, a network of highways to improve farmer access to markets.

Consideration might also be given to the conversion of military facilities to civilian use. Power plants, sewage treatment plants, docks and roads are in this category.

"But the Vietnamese people are capable of doing this," said Lillenthal. "We will help and are capable of doing this," said Lillenthal. "We will help and their government will help. The same is true of problems in the private sector. So our job is to try to be helpful."

In other words, grand schemes such as at Khuzestan, Iran, are unlikely.

In that project, where DR has been at work for 10 years, a tremendous dam was built. From it, water and electric power flowed to the barren desert, which now has schools, in-

Parents by the thousands will drag their churlish, reluctant children to scientific laboratories with such requests as:

"I want my son, Irving to be a doctor. What do you charge for three injections of medical brains? better yet, make him a specialist. How much for 10 injections?"

"My daughter I would like to see in Radcliffe. Her brains seem okay in English and gymnasium, but she's terribly weak in Ancient History brains, Greek brains, and Social Science brains. Can she get all the injections she needs today, or do you want her to come back tomorrow also?"

"Our little boy is fine in nursery school in everything but group attitude. His teacher says he is far too aggressive. Would you recommend perhaps an injection of mice brains to help give him a meeker personality?"

There are no end to the possibilities, of course.

A husband with a wife chronically unable to balance her bank account could well threaten her with divorce if she refused to be injected with brain extract from an obliging accountant.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

In light of the terrible tragedy which struck our city last Saturday, I have heard a multitude of comments, both good and bad, concerning the performance of the Circleville Fire Department. I'm sure this is only natural, and to be expected after a disaster such as ours. But after fighting the fire side-by-side with the men of the Circleville Fire Department all afternoon, I feel compelled to make my feelings known on the matter.

First of all, considering the small size and lack of experience, in fighting major fires inherent in a small town fire department, I feel that the Circleville Department did a tremendous job, and deserves the respect and gratitude of us all.

In the face of a very stiff wind, and handicapped by a lack of equipment, the fire department and volunteer workers kept the fire from spreading, and brought it under control in very short order. By approximately 2:20 p. m., all danger of the fire spreading was past, and for all intents and purposes it was under control. This was only about 90 minutes after the fire started.

Secondly, I would like to make the following proposal to the City of Circleville, and will gladly volunteer my time and services in any manner desired to implement its acceptance and get it started. I would like

A wife with a husband unable to earn her a decent living might want to mortgage their small home to raise funds to inject him with extract of a millionaire's brain.

There is also the probability that criminal syndicates would get into the act. They could start selling brain extracts of famous people on the black market, and secretly water them down with brain extract taken from Bowery bums and broken-down horse players, eager to make a fast buck.

Aside from the threat of chicanery involved in creating a mass brain extract market to help everyone achieve instant wisdom, there is a practical limitation: There aren't that many brains around. And most of the people with good brains aren't about to dilute them for the benefit of others. They choose to keep them for their own use.

As Euclid said long ago, "There is no royal road to learning."

Despite what science may do with mice, people will have to go on learning with the brains they were born with.

ONE OF THE most hazardous occupations in the theatre for the past two decades has been trying to steal a scene from the inimitable Tallulah Bankhead—but a brash monkey almost got away with it at a tryout one evening. The curtain had just gone up for Act Two, and Tallulah had not yet delivered her first line when the monkey yanked off the wig she was wearing for her part, jumped from her arms, and threw the wig to a startled playgoer in Row C of the orchestra. Miss Bankhead, however, promptly stole the scene back by doing a perfect double somersault.

Old Lady Scroggins had celebrated her eighty-fifth birthday, but still had plenty of ginger left in her. In fact, on a date with a gay widower, she had to slap him three times. "Did he get fresh with you, grandma?" asked her grandson anxiously. "Fresh?" echoed Old Lady Scroggins. "He wouldn't dare! I had to slap him to make sure he wasn't DEAD!"

QUICKIES:

An actor's wife has found a way to make her husband eat leftovers. She tells him they've been held over.

Mrs. Hornfoot saw a pair of acquaintances in the lobby at an opening night and remarked to her husband, "Now, that looks like a happily married couple." Replied Mr. Hornfoot warily, "Don't be too sure, my treasure. They're probably saying the same thing about us."

to propose that Circleville organize and support an Emergency Squad, or similar group, to aid both the police and fire departments in times of emergency such as last Saturday.

I'm certain that there are enough conscientious and community-minded citizens in Circleville to support such a group on a strictly volunteer (no pay involved) basis. Such a group could be adequately trained by the police and fire departments and could prove to be extremely valuable as an auxiliary force in times of emergency.

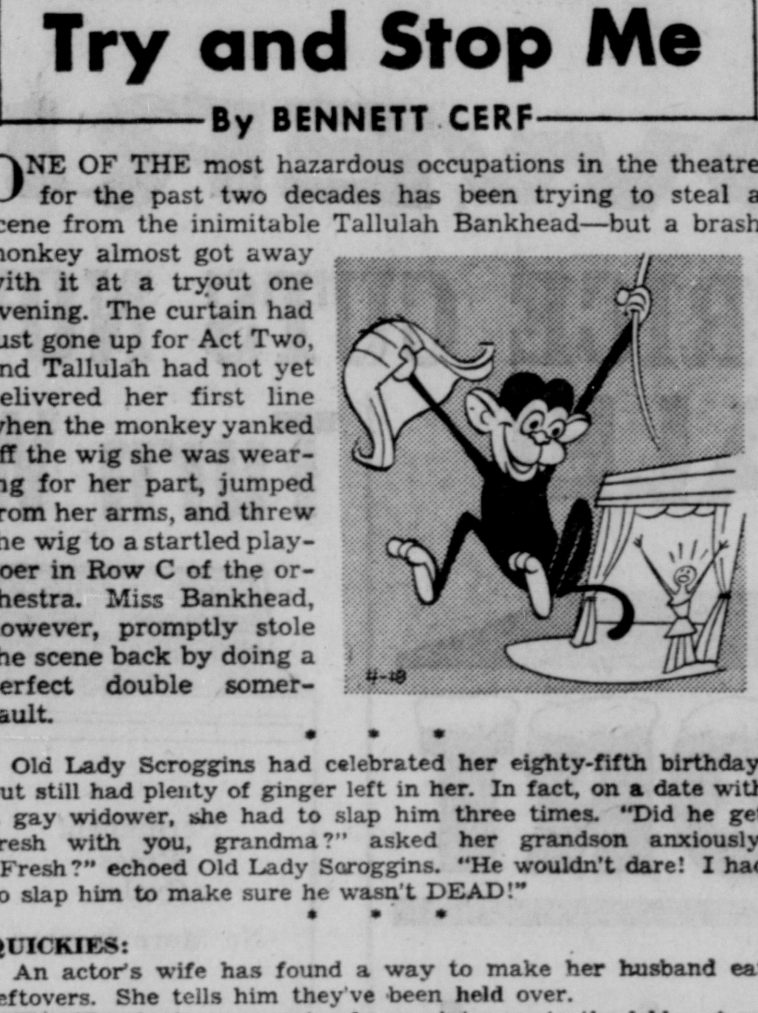

Having completed the Naval Fire Fighting and Damage Control School (three-month course in fire fighting techniques, equipment, and damage control) at Philadelphia, Naval Shipyard several years ago while serving with the U. S. Navy, I consider myself at least partially qualified in knowledge and experience in this type of work. I'm sure there are many others in Circleville who have had some type of fire fighting experience, and who also know the value of auxiliary groups such as the one I propose.

I urge city officials to take this matter under consideration, as I feel it is vital to the continued safety and protection of the citizens of Circleville. Once again, I offer my services in any way in which officials feel I might help.

"There is no use lying doctor. I'm just plain scared to death!" This was the very first statement made to me by a new patient when he first came to my office.

To emphasize the impact of this, I must describe him in detail. He was a professional wrestler. His size and appearance had absolutely nothing to do with the intensity of the fear he felt and expressed.

We chatted informally for a few minutes and despite my efforts to minimize his anxiety, I found that it mounted and grew worse. It reached a peak when he suddenly said, "doctor, I'm parked near a fire hydrant, do you mind if I put off this appointment until tomorrow?"

Here was an adult who reverted to a child-like pattern of escaping from a real situation by running away because he was unable to conquer the fears that had been distressing him for such a long time.

When I sympathetically explained to him why he reacted as he did without embarrassing him, he smiled and quickly decided that it was kin of silly and that he would stay after all.

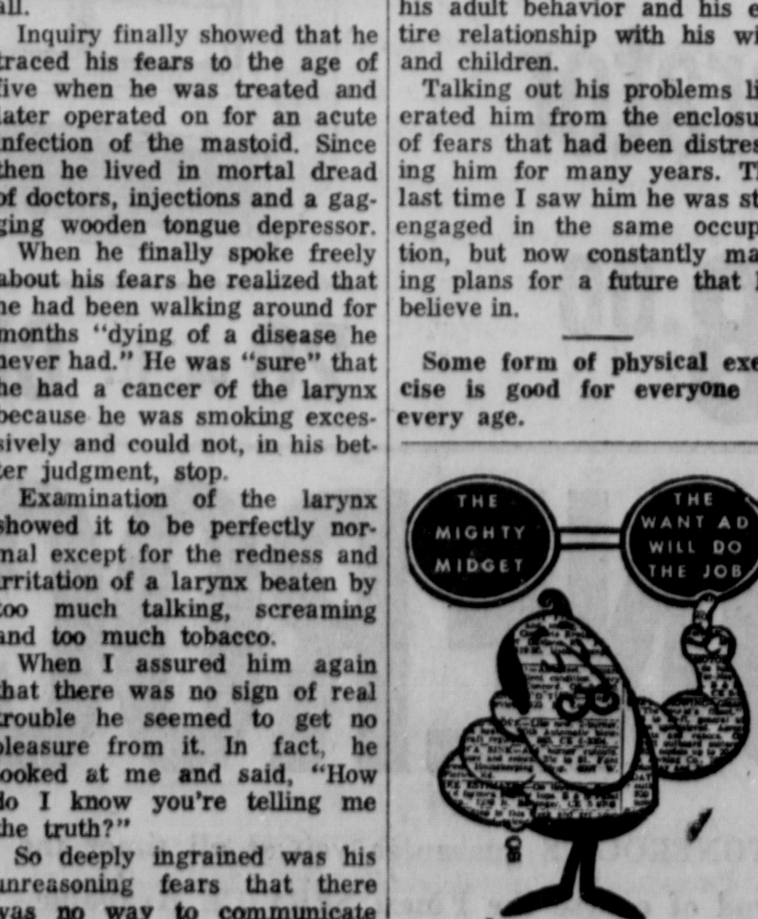

Inquiry finally showed that he traced his fears to the age of five when he was treated and later operated on for an acute infection of the mastoid. Since then he lived in mortal dread of doctors, injections and a gagging wooden tongue depressor.

When he finally spoke freely about his fears he realized that he had been walking around for months "dying of a disease he never had." He was "sure" that he had a cancer of the larynx because he was smoking excessively and could not, in his better judgment, stop.

Examination of the larynx showed it to be perfectly normal except for the redness and irritation of a larynx beaten by too much talking, screaming and too much tobacco.

When I assured him again that there was no sign of real trouble he seemed to get no pleasure from it. In fact, he looked at me and said, "How do I know you're telling me the truth?"

So deeply ingrained was his unreasoning fears that there was no way to communicate

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio — This is steel country — and a seminar for top management on the topic of "Change in the Government - Business Relationship," held by the local Industrial Information Institute, Inc., inevitably comes down in the question and answer periods to steel's own relationships with Washington, D. C.

In some ways steel is sitting pretty so far as government is concerned. For recently it has relinquished its old role of political whipping boy to the automobile industry, which is now being pilloried for an inability to change its production line dies, jigs, and fixtures overnight to provide instant safety in its 1968 models. Steel's safety campaigns were undertaken years ago, and a modern mill is now just about as foolproof as one could wish.

On the other hand, there is pollution. This is a problem with a thousand faces. They tell one story here about the strange case of the Geneva, plant of United States Steel, situated in the great open spaces where pollution should be the last problem to worry about. It seems that after World War II, when U. S. Steel bought the mill from the government, the cows on the ranches surrounding the community of Geneva started dying of a mysterious malady. Their teeth disintegrated, and they could no longer crop the local grasses. Ranchers suspected the fall-out from the steel mill stacks, and it turned out they were right. The Geneva mill was using native Utah ore, with a high fluoride content. The fluoride went up in smoke, came down on the grass in quantities to great for animal tolerance, and U. S. Steel had a lot of ranchers' law suits on its hands. It didn't get off the hook until it went elsewhere for its ore. Today it maintains cows in its own Geneva front yard just to prove to farmers that it no longer pollutes the local meadows.

The eradication of pollution in steel towns now has the attention which the topic of mill safety was getting the day before yesterday. Since pollution does have those thousand faces, its eradication is necessarily a slow process. Oddly, steel stands to

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbside comments by a sidewalk Socrates:

What would happen if actress Jayne Mansfield were given an injection from the brain of the late mathematician, Dr. Albert Einstein?

Might it help make her figure better?

This and many another conjecture has been raised by two scientific experiments which indicate that specific information can be transmitted from one creature to another by brain extract injections.

The experiments at Baylor University's College of Medicine and Queens College of the city of New York were done on mice.

The problem for the mice was to learn their way out of a maze. Evidence was found that beginning mice solved the problem quicker when given injections of brain extract from other mice who had earlier learned the best way out of the maze.

Naturally, if this be true on a broad scale, it is too good a technique to limit to mice. If it helps them get out of a maze, why can't it also help people solve the problems of the human rat race?

Parents by the thousands will drag their churlish, reluctant children to scientific laboratories with such requests as:

"I want my son, Irving to be a doctor. What do you charge for three injections of medical brains? better yet, make him a specialist. How much for 10 injections?"

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio — This is steel country — and a seminar for top management on the topic of "Change in the Government - Business Relationship," held by the local Industrial Information Institute, Inc., inevitably comes down in the question and answer periods to steel's own relationships with Washington, D. C.

In some ways steel is sitting pretty so far as government is concerned. For recently it has relinquished its old role of political whipping boy to the automobile industry, which is now being pilloried for an inability to change its production line dies, jigs, and fixtures overnight to provide instant safety in its 1968 models. Steel's safety campaigns were undertaken years ago, and a modern mill is now just about as foolproof as one could wish.

On the other hand, there is pollution. This is a problem with a thousand faces. They tell one story here about the strange case of the Geneva, plant of United States Steel, situated in the great open spaces where pollution should be the last problem to worry about. It seems that after World War II, when U. S. Steel bought the Utah mill from the government, the cows on the ranches surrounding the community of Geneva started dying of a mysterious malady. Their teeth disintegrated, and they could no longer crop the local grasses. Ranchers suspected the fall-out from the steel mill stacks, and it turned out they were right. The Geneva mill was using native Utah ore, with a high fluoride content. The fluoride went up in smoke, came down on the grass in quantities to great for animal tolerance, and U. S. Steel had a lot of ranchers' law suits on its hands. It didn't get off the hook until it went elsewhere for its ore. Today it maintains cows in its own Geneva front yard just to prove to farmers that it no longer pollutes the local meadows.

The eradication of pollution in steel towns now has the attention which the topic of mill safety was getting the day before yesterday. Since pollution does have those thousand faces, its eradication is necessarily a slow process. Oddly, steel stands to make more money by carrying out anti-pollution measures. It has discovered that it is cheaper in the long run to shift over to the new oxygen process methods, with built-in pollution controls, than to put electric precipitators into the old open hearths. The anti-pollution drive forces technological change and makes steel richer.

Steel hopes to duck a showdown with the federal government on pollution by being more forehanded than the automobile industry was when Ralph Nader started accusing Detroit of turning out cars that were lethal weapons. If steel still feels that it is being victimized by circumstances, it is on the subject of foreign competition. Not so long ago U. S. Steel's residential vice president in Washington, William G. Whyte, was busy buttonholing Senators to complain about the 11 million tons of steel imports from Europe and Japan that were taking a full ten per cent of the annual American domestic market. Now steel people are saying there will be 14 million tons of steel imports for 1967, which will account for sixteen per cent of a shrinking market total. Fearful that imports will jump to twenty per cent of the market by 1968 or 1969, the basic steel manufacturers are beginning a big agitation for an equalizing protective tariff.

Such demand could provoke a crisis in the government-business relationships of steel. For two of the big foreign steel producers, Germany and Japan, are our chief bulwarks against the Communists. A tariff on Japanese steel products would not endear Washington to Tokyo.

There is much to argue about in this matter of a steel tariff, for the "public" or "national" interest involved in it is not at all clear-cut. On the one hand, we need a strong basic steel industry to undergird our national defense. On the other hand, we must consider the sensibilities of allies. Faced with such a choice, one sympathizes with the client who wanted to be represented by a one-armed lawyer who wouldn't be able to point in two directions at once.

NAVY TRANSPORT DAMAGED—Sailors at Norfolk, Va., look over the LaSalle, a Navy transport ship dock, after its arrival at the amphibious base. The LaSalle was damaged in a collision with Israeli freighter Deganya off Cape Henry.

WASHINGTON (AP) — It sounded like a call to a new life, to a fresh beginning, and the very manner of the man gave that feeling.

In the White House the Latin-American diplomats stood listening as the young president proposed that their republics join the United States in a 10-year, 10-point program.

Its goal, he said, would be "to build a hemisphere where all men can hope for the same high standard of living — and all can live out their lives in dignity and freedom."

He suggested that the various American nations could transform the continent and make it "an example to all the world that liberty and progress walk hand in hand."

That was in March 1961, and President John F. Kennedy stirred the Latin Americans as they hadn't been in years. From that moment he became a shining figure to this country's southern neighbors.

Even the disastrous American-backed rebel invasion of Cuba just a month later didn't spoil the Kennedy image in Latin America, for later in the year the Alliance for Progress was created at Punta del Este in Uruguay.

Now it's almost six years later. Has there been progress under the alliance? Those who are delighted at any sign of forward movement in Latin America will say yes. Others, more pragmatic, think the alliance has just been stumbling along.

Last week another president, a different kind of man, with a different manner, Lyndon B. Johnson, went to another meeting at Punta del Este, this time for a meeting with 19 Latin-American presidents to get more action for the future and in more ways.

He operated in low key, standing in the background pretty much, avoiding any flamboyance or suggestion of dominating the conference because he represented the Western Hemisphere's dominant force, the United States.

At the opening session he yielded his own speaking time to the others and did what was more natural for him since he had been doing that kind of thing most of his life: he talked privately with the individual presidents.

His ability as a speaker had never equaled his ability as a negotiator.

And when he did speak to the assembled group he left out the big flourishes, avoided flat promises of help, said instead he would do his best to get Congress to agree to aid the Latin Americans in various ways.

The next 10 years, he suggested, should be called the "decade of urgency." And he told his fellow presidents the dream of the alliance and of progress can come to pass only if "you hearts and minds become committed to it."

In short, Johnson did not try to compete with the image or memory of Kennedy. He was tougher under the pleasant words. He acted as a friend but

He managed to get across the message there will be less babying of Latin Americans and the help they get from this country will depend pretty much on their own willingness to pitch in and do for themselves.

He was reflecting a hardening of the American attitude toward aid abroad, perhaps because of weariness from years of aiding, perhaps because there is less sense of urgency and emergency than there used to be.

But Johnson's whole performance seemed to go beyond just the need of the moment and the circumstances. What he did, and how he did it, seemed to be part of a decision in and about himself.

It is one more example of the change which apparently began late last year. For example: Just try to remember how many times you have seen Johnson on television since the first of the year.

Instead of the rather bubbling President of earlier years, an impression that hurt him with the American public, Johnson has swung around to a deliberately subdued style with fewer appearances, fewer words. He has been consistent in this for months and probably will remain that way for the rest of presidency.

1220 S. COURT ST.

WASHINGTON (AP) — It sounded like a call to a new life, to a fresh beginning, and the very manner of the man gave that feeling.

In the White House the Latin-American diplomats stood listening as the young president proposed that their republics join the United States in a 10-year, 10-point program.

Its goal, he said, would be "to build a hemisphere where all men can hope for the same high standard of living — and all can live out their lives in dignity and freedom."

He suggested that the various American nations could transform the continent and make it "an example to all the world that liberty and progress walk hand in hand."

That was in March 1961, and President John F. Kennedy stirred the Latin Americans as they hadn't been in years. From that moment he became a shining figure to this country's southern neighbors.

Even the disastrous American-backed rebel invasion of Cuba just a month later didn't spoil the Kennedy image in Latin America, for later in the year the Alliance for Progress was created at Punta del Este in Uruguay.

Now it's almost six years later. Has there been progress under the alliance? Those who are delighted at any sign of forward movement in Latin America will say yes. Others, more pragmatic, think the alliance has just been stumbling along.

Last week another president, a different kind of man, with a different manner, Lyndon B. Johnson, went to another meeting at Punta del Este, this time for a meeting with 19 Latin-American presidents to get more action for the future and in more ways.

He operated in low key, standing in the background pretty much, avoiding any flamboyance or suggestion of dominating the conference because he represented the Western Hemisphere's dominant force, the United States.

At the opening session he yielded his own speaking time to the others and did what was more natural for him since he had been doing that kind of thing most of his life: he talked privately with the individual presidents.

His ability as a speaker had never equaled his ability as a negotiator.

And when he did speak to the assembled group he left out the big flourishes, avoided flat promises of help, said instead he would do his best to get Congress to agree to aid the Latin Americans in various ways.

The next 10 years, he suggested, should be called the "decade of urgency." And he told his fellow presidents the dream of the alliance and of progress can come to pass only if "you hearts and minds become committed to it."

In short, Johnson did not try to compete with the image or memory of Kennedy. He was tougher under the pleasant words. He acted as a friend but a rather stern one behind the smile.

He managed to get across the message there will be less babying of Latin Americans and the help they get from this country will depend pretty much on their own willingness to pitch in and do for themselves.

There was more than just his own thinking in what he said. He was reflecting a hardening of the American attitude toward aid abroad, perhaps because of weariness from years of aiding, perhaps because there is less sense of urgency and emergency than there used to be.

But Johnson's whole performance seemed to go beyond just the need of the moment and the circumstances. What he did, and how he did it, seemed to be part of a decision in and about himself.

It is one more example of the change which apparently began late last year. For example: Just try to remember how many times you have seen Johnson on television since the first of the year.

Instead of the rather bubbling President of earlier years, an impression that hurt him with the American public, Johnson has swung around to a deliberately subdued style with fewer appearances, fewer words.

He has been consistent in this for months and probably will remain that way for the rest of his presidency.

Circleville Women Attend OFWC Annual Session

Circleville Junior Women's Club received many awards for their projects at the annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs, held last week at the Columbus Sheraton.

The state administration theme was "Building a Better America in the Space Age", and the convention theme was "Yesterday, Tomorrow and Today".

Circleville Jr. Women's Club served as one of the hostesses.

Delegates from Circleville were: Mrs. Manuel Sanguly and Mrs. David Schneider. Others attending with the delegates were: Mrs. James Rae, Mrs. John Eshelman Jr., Mrs. Joe Smith, Mrs. Paul Sarohet, Mrs.

Shower Honors Bride-Elect

Miss Anita Clendenen, bride-elect of Aaron Harper, was honored with a bridal shower recently at the home of Mrs. Emma Baldwin, Route 4. Melodee Bartholomew, Fay Young and Sandy Lloyd were the co-hostesses.

The gift table was placed in front of the living room fireplace and was decorated in blue and white. A bride doll centered the table with a blue sprinkling can spilling blue and white paper rain directly over the doll. White flowers and candles decorated the fireplace shelves.

A white chrysanthemum corsage was presented to the honored guest. Games were played and the prizes awarded to Miss Clendenen.

Immediately before refreshments, a decorated birthday cake, complete with candles, was placed before Miss Clendenen in celebration of her recent birthday.

Those attending were: Miss Clendenen, Gloria Clendenen, Jeanne Young, Sharma Callahan, Bonnie Wells, Judi Willey, Jill Jenkins, Ann Miller, Sharon Williamson, Marcia Eckard, Jill McFarland, Sylvia Hussey, Sharon Gibson, Geneva Young, Mary Hunter, Elsie Bartholomew, Betty Davis, Sandy Wisecup, Glenna Wisecup and Sara Hill. Elva Hoplite and Joyce Long, unable to attend, sent gifts.

Each person attending brought an unlabeled can of food which was presented to Miss Clendenen.

Auxiliary Unit Dedicates Flag

In the name of Hall-Adkins Post, Unit 134, American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. Robert Stephens dedicated a fifty star U.S. Flag for the gymnasium at Darby Twp. Elementary School.

Mr. Lowell Anderson, principal of the school, accepted the flag and the Pledge of Allegiance followed.

Mrs. Stenobe Stonerock, Mrs. Roseann Stinson and Mrs. Bess Simson represented the unit. They were privileged to meet Marine Sgts. Charles Strogoff and Richard Wolfe of the INI Staff, Columbus. The sergeants showed and narrated a film of the fighting in Vietnam. The film took the audience on an air trip over Da Nang and on through the jungle.

Sgt. Strogoff said that any organization or group wishing to see the film can do so by contacting, William F. Roberts, Sergeant Major, U. S. Marine Corps, 240 N. Sandusky St., Columbus, 43215. The telephone number is 228-1501.

Lausche Will Support OBC

Bond Commission Debate Continues

CLEVELAND (AP) — The proposed Ohio Bond Commission received endorsement from U.S. Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, and criticism from the Cleveland chapter of Americans for Democratic Action Monday.

Lausche, speaking at the annual luncheon of the Cleveland Port Authority, said "I'm going to support it and vote for it."

The proposal on the May 2 ballot calls for appointment by the governor of a five-man commission which would have authority to float bonds for capital improvements without specific approval of the voters.

Officers of the Cleveland chapter of ADA said Ohio's greatest need now is for more operating funds, not more capital improvement money.

Dr. Laurence White, Cleveland ADA chairman, said there is "no crisis for capital improvements in Ohio" and there should have been no rush to get the proposal on the ballot.

Bonds issued by the commission would be repaid from the state's general revenue fund.

You'd Think They'd Pay Single Gals Compensation

NEW YORK (AP) — This year a girl doesn't have to pay federal income tax on the damages she wins from a fellow's breach of promise to marry her.

But that bit of gallant largesse from Uncle Sam isn't going to do much to reconcile a spinster, divorcee or widow to paying hundreds of dollars more in taxes than a married couple with the same taxable income.

To many of the 13 million single women in the United States it looks as if they're being penalized for not marrying.

"You'd think," one woman commented as she rushed to meet the filing deadline today, "the government would pay us to compensate for not having a man around the house."

Another, in a high bracket, said her accountant told her the other day: "Honey if you'd just get a husband I could save you 20 per cent!"

In spite of efforts by a few legislators, especially Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., to remedy the situation, nothing happens. Actually it's getting worse, because more women are reaching the higher income brackets where the disparity is wider.

For example, a single woman with a taxable income of $6,000 pays $130 more in federal income tax than a married couple pays on the same amount. With an $8,000 taxable income, the difference is $250, and on up the tax rate schedule.

Then, too, the married couple gets an automatic deduction of $1,200, or $800 more than the single person.

Unmarried people have always paid a higher percentage of tax, but things got rough when income splitting for married couples was first provided in 1948. Then in 1951 special tax rates were set forth for those who qualified as head of household.

"The trouble is," McCarthy points out, "that these qualifications are so demanding that they exclude many more women than they include."

What he wants to do is extend the head of household category to widows and widowers and to single persons over 35 who have never been married or divorced for three years or more, who maintain their own households.

Practically any unmarried woman over 35 has actually founded a household, he maintains. Hundreds of thousands are supporting minor children; millions are contributing to the support of aged parents.

Israel's Church Women Meet

Israel's Lutheran Church women met in the home of Mrs. Clydus Fausnaugh for their April meeting.

The program was presented by Mrs. Harold Reinhold, who used "Faith" as her topic.

Members and guests were: Mrs. Durbin Good, Mrs. Albert Fausnaugh, Mrs. Richard Young, Mrs. Harry Bockard, Mrs. Cliff Hedges, Mrs. Charlie Christy and Cheryl, Mrs. Ray Reinhold and Risha, Mrs. George Valentine, Mrs. Maud Christy, Miss Stella Messie, Mrs. Clark Aldenderfer and Mrs. Ross Good.

A gift shower for Mrs. Ray Reinhold and Risha was given after the program.

Dr. White said the funds "are already limited, as witnessed by under-financed programs in health, higher and secondary education and public welfare."

Lausche, former Ohio governor, said "Ohio is in direct competition with other states for industrial growth to create jobs. I am in favor of the Ohio Bond Commission procedure to finance the growth of Ohio."

Lausche, who served five two-year terms as the state's chief executive, reaffirmed his endorsement in Columbus Monday night. He was there to address a dinner commemorating the 100th anniversary of Ohio's first statutes regulating the insurance business.

Lausche explained his support for the bond commission proposed by Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes by noting that "virtually every state is pursuing a program substantially similar and we should not sit back without taking action."

The state's senior senator said he "would not support a program of this type on a national scale."

"It would be disastrous," he said.

In his speech before 700 persons at the Ohio insurance centennial dinner, Lausche said "the tentacles are extended from Washington all over the land to push federal control more and more into private lives and private business."

This is especially true, he said, "when the power seekers can say that local and state governments have failed."

Sen. Lausche said the federal government's role should be the promotion of the "full enjoyment of constitutional rights — no more, no less — with a limitation on what it can do for people without breaking their backs with excessive taxation."

Meanwhile in Sandusky, the executive director of State Democratic Headquarters challenged Rhodes' statements that "all proposals of the Ohio Bond Commission would be reviewed by the legislature."

"If the OBC would be a mere planning commission, subject to the General Assembly's full control, as Rhodes said last week, then he cannot possibly predict or promise the $1.3 billion of projects for every county and major city in Ohio," Eugene P. O'Grady said in a speech.

"Either OBC would have absolute power to carry out the governor's promises, or he has used a deliberate hoax to win votes," O'Grady told the Erie County Democratic Women's Club.

"... If he can deliver on his promises, that means OBC will be completely under his thumb. If he can't deliver on his promises, he has used the worst kind of misrepresentation and deception in order to increase his power for 3 1/2 years — while the taxpayer will be paying for generations on billion-dollar bond programs," O'Grady concluded.

New Bishop Will Be Installed at Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Bishop John A. Donovan will be installed today as spiritual leader of the 19-county Roman Catholic Diocese of Toledo. He assumes his new duties today as successor to Bishop George J. Rehring, 76, who stepped down because of his age.

The new bishop, 55, comes to the diocese from Detroit, where he has been auxiliary to Archbishop John F. Dearden since 1954. He is a native of Chatham, Ont.

Secretary, Beatrice Anderson, read the minutes and correspondence from: Mrs. T. B. Gehart, Mrs. Joe West, Mrs. E. P. Folrod, Mrs. George Schein, Mrs. Lorena Mohr, Mrs. Walter Wright, Misses Lena and Grace Schein and the American National Red Cross.

The treasurer report was read and approved. Committee reports were given.

A committee consisting of Mrs. Raymond Valone, Mrs. Beatrice Anderson and Mrs. Carl Schein was appointed by the president to make plans for the Annual Senior Dinner and program.

Announcements of future events was made, including evening services, annual meeting of Ohio Conference of Woman's Society, May 3 and 4 in Newark, Mission School for adults at Otterbein College, Westerville in July.

The next meeting, May 9, will be a noon carry-in dinner, honoring new members.

Mrs. Russell Wardell, devotional leader, sang a hymn, followed by scriptural reading. The business session was closed with a prayer of Suzanne Wesley.

Mrs. Beatrice Anderson, program leader, used as her topic "The Tree of Life Bears Fruit." A large tree decorated the room. Her topic was a history of the World Federation of Women, presented in tableau, with different members representing the twelve fruits or areas of work. The twelve fruits include: Evangelism, Medical Work, Education, Literature, Children, Youth, Home and Family Life, Rural Projects, Economic Justice, International Friendship, Temperance and World Peace.

Piano solo's were presented by Miss Cindy Hamman and Miss Nancy Keller.

The program closed with a vocal duet by Mrs. Raymond Valone and Mrs. Beatrice Anderson.

Mrs. Clark Hunsicker and her committee served refreshments.

Lausche Will Support OBC

Bond Commission Debate Continues

CLEVELAND (AP) — The proposed Ohio Bond Commission received endorsement from U.S. Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, and criticism from the Cleveland chapter of Americans for Democratic Action Monday.

Lausche, speaking at the annual luncheon of the Cleveland Port Authority, said "I'm going to support it and vote for it."

The proposal on the May 2 ballot calls for appointment by the governor of a five-man commission which would have authority to float bonds for capital improvements without specific approval of the voters.

Officers of the Cleveland chapter of ADA said Ohio's greatest need now is for more operating funds, not more capital improvement money.

Dr. Laurence White, Cleveland ADA chairman, said there is "no crisis for capital improvements in Ohio" and there should have been no rush to get the proposal on the ballot.

Bonds issued by the commission would be repaid from the state's general revenue fund.

Lausche explained his support for the bond commission proposed by Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes by noting that "virtually every state is pursuing a program substantially similar and we should not sit back without taking action."

The state's senior senator said he "would not support a program of this type on a national scale."

"It would be disastrous," he said.

In his speech before 700 persons at the Ohio insurance centennial dinner, Lausche said "the tentacles are extended from Washington all over the land to push federal control more and more into private lives and private business."

This is especially true, he said, "when the power seekers difference is $250, and on up the tax rate schedule."

Then, too, the married couple gets an automatic deduction of $1,200, or $600 more than the single person.

Unmarried people have always paid a higher percentage of tax, but things got rough when income splitting for married couples was first provided in 1948. Then in 1951 special tax rates were set forth for those who qualified as head of household.

"The trouble is," McCarthy points out, "that these qualifications are so demanding that they exclude many more women than they include."

What he wants to do is extend the head of household category to widows and widowers and to single persons over 35 who have never been married or who have been separated or divorced for three years or more, who maintain their own households.

Practically any unmarried woman over 35 has actually founded a household, he maintains. Hundreds of thousands are supporting minor children: millions are contributing to the support of aged parents.

New Bishop Will Be Installed at Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Bishop John A. Donovan will be installed today as spiritual leader of the 19-county Roman Catholic Diocese of Toledo. He assumes his new duties today as successor to Bishop George J. Rehring, 76, who stepped down because of his age.

The new bishop, 55, comes to the diocese from Detroit, where he has been auxiliary to Archbishop John F. Dearden since 1954. He is a native of Chatham, Ont.

How To Hold FALSE TEETH More Firmly in Place

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTERE on your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath." Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get FASTERE at all drug counters.

Israels Church Women Meet

Israels Lutheran Church women met in the home of Mrs. Clydus Fausnaugh for their April meeting.

The program was presented by Mrs. Harold Reinheld, who used "Faith" as her topic.

Members and guests were: Mrs. Durbin Good, Mrs. Albert Fausnaugh, Mrs. Richard Young, Mrs. Harry Bockard, Mrs. Cliff Hedges, Mrs. Charlie Christy and Cheryl, Mrs. Ray Reinheld and Risha, Mrs. George Valentine, Mrs. Maud Christy, Miss Stella Messie, Mrs. Clark Aldenderfer and Mrs. Ross Good.

A gift shower for Mrs. Ray Reinheld and Risha was given after the program.

Dr. White said the funds "are already limited, as witnessed by under-financed programs in health, higher and secondary education and public welfare."

Lausche, former Ohio governor, said "Ohio is in direct competition with other states for industrial growth to create jobs. I am in favor of the Ohio Bond Commission procedure to finance the growth of Ohio."

Lausche, who served five two-year terms as the state's chief executive, reaffirmed his endorsement in Columbus Monday night. He was there to address a dinner commemorating the 100th anniversary of Ohio's first statutes regulating the insurance business.

Lausche explained his support for the bond commission proposed by Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes by noting that "virtually every state is pursuing a program substantially similar and we should not sit back without taking action."

The state's senior senator said he "would not support a program of this type on a national scale."

"It would be disastrous," he said.

In his speech before 700 persons at the Ohio insurance centennial dinner, Lausche said "the tentacles are extended from Washington all over the land to push federal control more and more into private lives and private business."

This is especially true, he said, "when the power seekers can say that local and state governments have failed."

Sen. Lausche said the federal government's role should be the promotion of the "full enjoyment of constitutional rights — no more, no less — with a limitation on what it can do for people without breaking their backs with excessive taxation."

Meanwhile in Sandusky, the executive director of State Democratic Headquarters challenged Rhodes' statements that "all proposals of the Ohio Bond Commission would be reviewed by the legislature."

"If the OBC would be a mere planning commission, subject to the General Assembly's full control, as Rhodes said last week, then he cannot possibly predict or promise the $1.3 billion of projects for every county and major city in Ohio," Eugene P. O'Grady said in a speech.

"Either OBC would have absolute power to carry out the governor's promises, or he has used a deliberate hoax to win votes," O'Grady told the Erie County Democratic Women's Club.

"If he can deliver on his promises, that means OBC will be completely under his thumb. If he can't deliver on his promises, he has used the worst kind of misrepresentation and deception in order to increase his power for 3½ years—while the taxpayer will be paying for generations on billion-dollar bond programs," O'Grady concluded.

Ohio Legislature

Ohio May Never Decide On an Official Song

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio may never get a song to add to its "official family" which now includes a state bird, tree, flower, motto, flag and drink.

It's not that the legislature isn't trying. Perhaps too many are getting into the would-be Hit Parade.

The lawmakers received four more suggestions for songs Monday night upon return from weekend recesses, bringing to 20 the number of such bills pending.

Another measure marking time in the Senate would create an Ohio Song Commission which would solicit entries at festivals around the state and submit its choice to the 1969 legislature. All 20 songs in one way or another proclaim Ohio's virtues and some would set Gov. James A. Rhodes' "Wonderful World of Ohio" theme to music. Still another with the not-so-nostalgic title of "Ohio—the Heart of Industry" would seem to underscore the governor's jobs and progress campaign.

Only one of the songs apparently has more than token support but it might be rejected because it was written about the Ohio River and not the state and the composer was not an Ohioan. Twenty sponsoring House members nevertheless contend the song "Beautiful Ohio" is the best known of all entries and already widely accepted as the Buckeye State's own.

House and Senate leaders have set no date for hearing the various songs and in fact have yet to confirm they will at all. Meanwhile, as one statehouse observer punned, "Ohio is Without a Song."

Routine floor sessions in both houses opened the 15th legislative week and the lawmakers introduced a total of 13 new bills—all but three of them in the House.

The Senate completed passage of a House bill permitting operators of a salvage and towing businesses to use special auto license tags now restricted to insurance companies and Lien holders.

Three bills were passed by the House without significant opposition. Two would permit courts to impose sanctions for failure to answer depositions and to give judicial recognition to common law in other states. The lower chamber passed and sent to the Senate a bill allowing library boards to employ deputy clerks authorized to handle funds.

Besides the four song bills—all introduced by Rep. Lloyd George Kerns R-16 Union—the House received proposals to set up statewide regulation for disposal of solid wastes, tighten control over water pollution programs, and require the Ohio Water Commission to implement a water management plan.

A new Senate bill would permit creation of special school districts for handicapped children.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, April 18, the 108th day of 1967. There are 257 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1775, Paul Revere made his famous ride to warn the American colonists of the approach of British troops from Boston.

On this date: In 1847, Gen. Winfield Scott captured Cerro Gordo Hill, the first point of resistance in his march on Mexico City.

In 1906, the great San Francisco earthquake and fire occurred.

In 1942, 16 overloaded B25s took off from the deck of the carrier Hornet. Led by Lt. Gen. James Doolittle, they attacked Tokyo and other Japanese cities in the first effort to bring the war to the Japanese homeland.

Ten years ago — President Dwight Eisenhower reduced his budget appropriations request to Congress by $1.342 billion.

Five years ago — The American delegation at the 17-nation disarmament conference in Geneva submitted for consideration a three-stage program to achieve general disarmament over a period of several years.

One year ago — Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., suggested that Japan or Burma take the lead in bringing about Vietnam peace negotiations which would include the United States, Red China, North Vietnam and South Vietnam.

15 Teachers To Pay Only Half of Tax

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—Fifteen Cornell University professors, opposed to the war in Vietnam, said Monday they would pay only 50 per cent of their federal income taxes.

The deadline for filing was midnight Monday.

A spokesman for the group said the 50 per cent figure was chosen because half of the nation's annual budget was spent on the war.

He said the protest was aimed at the war and not at the government's right to collect taxes.

Those who signed the pledge were Profs. Andreas C. Albrecht, Joe H. Griffith, Mark F. Sharefkin, Peter C. Stein, William M. Woodward, Michael Balch, Carl S. Herz, Jack Kiefer, George S. Rinehart, Alex Rosenberg, Miss Carol L. Marks, Neil H. Hertz, Sylvester E. Berki, Chandler Morse and Jay Schulman.

Griffith is the husband of Patricia Griffith, one of four American women who made an unauthorized trip to North Vietnam last December.

Transmitting Knowledge By Brain Extract Reported

CHICAGO (AP) — Evidence that specific information can be transmitted from one animal to another by means of brain extract injections was reported by two separate research groups Monday.

The experiments were with laboratory rats and mice, but Dr. Georges Ungar of Baylor University College of Medicine, Houston, Tex., said the findings "probably can be extended to some of the more complex mental processes" in humans.

Both research groups reported their results at the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

Ungar said the probability of his findings being due to chance were "less than 1 in 1,000."

Dr. Walter B. Essman and Dr. Gerald M. Lehrer of the Department of Psychology, Queens College, City University of New York, the other research team, described their results as "very statistically significant."

Both experiments tested the ability of mice to escape from a maze.

Ungar trained a group of rats to escape from a Y-shaped maze by an arm lighted by an electric bulb. The other arm was dark and charged with electricity.

Extracts prepared from the brains of these trained animals then were injected into untrained rats or mice. A second group of rats and mice was given extracts from the brains of untrained laboratory animals.

Before the injections, slightly more than half of each group chose the lighted escape route.

In later tests, more than three-quarters of the mice who had received brain extracts from trained animals chose the lighted or shock-free escape route. The other mice followed the same escape routes they chose before injections from untrained animals.

"Over 400 animals have now been tested in various learning situations and over-all results indicate a very high probability that some specific learned information has been transferred from the trained donors to the recipients," Ungar said.

Essman and Lehrer used the same extract injection technique to test the effects on animals seeking a left or right escape from their maze. They obtained from the brain cells of trained mice an extract of ribonucleic acid, a substance involved in the transmission of hereditary traits.

They found that the majority of mice which were injected with extract from the brains of mice taught to select the left-hand escape route followed that path. A right-handed pattern prevailed among mice receiving extract from mice taught to leave by that route.

Ungar said learned information can be transferred by chemical means and that "the chemical nature of its coding can hardly be doubted."

He theorized that nerve cells in the brain are labeled by a specific chemical molecule and that when the cells of two different channels are activated simultaneously "they exchange their chemical labels and thereby establish a new connection between the two channels."

They'll Regret That!

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP)—The Kentucky-Tennessee regional meeting of the American Assembly adopted a statement at its recent conference that more state legislative hearings should be held "to encourage participation of interested citizens."

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Eavesdropping Is Always Rude

DEAR ABBY: I am employed by a professional man who speaks a foreign language that I neither speak nor understand. Although he and his wife both speak English very well. When she calls, they frequently converse in the foreign language.

I told him once that I would be glad to step out of his office when he is conversing with his wife, but he said it wasn't necessary. I am not interested in what they have to say to each other, but I think this is very rude, don't you? What should I do?

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: Unless you are deliberately trying to tune in on his conversations with his wife (which you obviously are), what he says (and in whatever language) is none of your business. Eavesdropping is also "rude," — no?

DEAR ABBY: I have a son, my only child who is the proud owner of a very beautiful home. When my son lived alone he gave me the key to this home and I often entertained my friends there. Since he has married, I have continued to do so when my son and his wife were out of town.

His wife has now told me that she would "rather" that I did not use her home in this way. I feel that she is no right to forbid me, as it is my son's home, and as his mother I am entitled to be there whenever I please.

Shouldn't my son insist that his wife say no more about it?

INDIGNANT

DEAR INDIGNANT: No. Now that he is married, it is his wife's home as well as his. If you wish to remain on friendly terms with your son and his wife, don't ask your son to "insist" on anything. Entertain your friends in your own home, Mother, and say no more about it.

DEAR ABBY: I am 45 and unmarried and just started to work in a factory. All the employees eat their lunches together. They don't have a lunchroom where we can buy anything; we all bring our own lunches and they give us a lunchroom to eat in.

I noticed a very nice looking man about my age looking at me. (I'll call him "Romeo.") I asked about him and was told he was a "great guy" and not married. I would like to know Romeo better, but I don't want to ask anybody to introduce us because they might start teasing me — or him. How can I get acquainted?

JULIET

DEAR JULIET: Next time you pack your lunch, give the thermos an extra hard twist. Then come lunchtime, be sure Romeo sees you struggling to open it. And if he doesn't offer to open it for you (while opening a conversation at the same time) my name isn't ABBY.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WONDERING" IN BEVERLY HILLS: Yes, some doctors prescribe birth control pills to young girls (with their parents' consent only) for reasons which have nothing whatsoever to do with birth control.

Carson May Come Back To 'Tonight'

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Carson, who left his "Tonight" show during the AFTRA strike, then decided not to come back, is reconsidering.

"Money was not the main consideration," Carson said Sunday in an interview, "although naturally, this always comes up. There might be some changes in personnel on the program."

The comedian, who has a $15,000-a-week contract with NBC, said his attorneys would discuss several issues with network representatives today.

Carson said his return "depends on whether the NBC people and my representatives can work out our differences at the first of the week. If they do, there is a possibility that I will return to the show. They would like me to come back, and I would probably do so if everything is all right."

Carson had charged that the network breached his contract when it used taped reruns of his shows during the 13-day strike of the American Federation of Radio and Television Artists this month.

Country singer Jimmy Dean replaced Carson after the strike ended.

Two would permit courts to impose sanctions for failure to answer depositions and to give judicial recognition to common law in other states. The lower chamber passed and sent to the Senate a bill allowing library boards to employ deputy clerks authorized to handle funds.

Besides the four song bills—all introduced by Rep. Lloyd George Kerns R-16 Union—the House received proposals to set up statewide regulation for disposal of solid wastes, tighten control over water pollution programs, and require the Ohio Water Commission to implement a water management plan.

A new Senate bill would permit creation of special school districts for handicapped children.

15 Teachers To Pay Only Half of Tax

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—Fifteen Cornell University professors, opposed to the war in Vietnam, said Monday they would pay only 50 per cent of their federal income taxes.

The deadline for filing was midnight Monday.

A spokesman for the group said the 50 per cent figure was chosen because half of the nation's annual budget was spent on the war.

He said the protest was aimed at the war and not at the government's right to collect taxes.

Those who signed the pledge were Profs. Andreas C. Albrecht, Joe H. Griffith, Mark F. Shafren, Peter C. Stein, William M. Woodward, Michael Balch, Carl S. Herz, Jack Kiefer, George S. Rinehart, Alex Rosenberg, Miss Carol L. Marks, Neil H. Hertz, Sylvester E. Berki, Chandler Morse and Jay Schulman.

Griffith is the husband of Patricia Griffith, one of four American women who made an unauthorized trip to North Vietnam last December.

Transmitting Knowledge By Brain Extract Reported

CHICAGO (AP) — Evidence that specific information can be transmitted from one animal to another by means of brain extract injections was reported by two separate research groups Monday.

The experiments were with laboratory rats and mice, but Dr. Georges Ungar of Baylor University College of Medicine, Houston, Tex., said the findings "probably can be extended to some of the more complex mental processes" in humans.

Both research groups reported their results at the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

Ungar said the probability of his findings being due to chance were "less than 1 in 1,000."

Dr. Walter B. Essman and Dr. Gerald M. Lehrer of the Department of Psychology, Queens College, City University of New York, the other research team, described their results as "very statistically significant."

Both experiments tested the ability of mice to escape from a maze.

Ungar trained a group of rats to escape from a Y-shaped maze by an arm lighted by an electric bulb. The other arm was dark and charged with electricity.

Extracts prepared from the brains of these trained animals then were injected into untrained rats or mice. A second group of rats and mice was given extracts from the brains of untrained laboratory animals.

Before the injections, slightly more than half of each group chose the lighted escape route.

In later tests, more than three-quarters of the mice who had received brain extracts from trained animals chose the lighted or shock-free escape route. The other mice followed the same escape routes they chose before injections from untrained animals.

"Over 400 animals have now

been tested in various learning situations and over-all results indicate a very high probability that some specific learned information has been transferred from the trained donors to the recipients," Ungar said.

Essman and Lehrer used the same extract injection technique to test the effects on animals seeking a left or right escape from their maze. They obtained from the brain cells of trained mice an extract of ribonucleic acid, a substance involved in the transmission of hereditary traits.

They found that the majority of mice which were injected with extract from the brains of mice taught to select the left-hand escape route followed that path. A right-handed pattern prevailed among mice receiving extract from mice taught to leave by that route.

Ungar said learned information can be transferred by chemical means and that "the chemical nature of its coding can hardly be doubted."

He theorized that nerve cells in the brain are labeled by a specific chemical molecule and that when the cells of two different channels are activated simultaneously "they exchange their chemical labels and thereby establish a new connection between the two channels."

They'll Regret That!

Granger John Dowler First To Buy Special Stamps

GRANGE STAMP — Robert Glick (left), Ashville postmaster, hands the first issue of the Grange Commemorative stamp to John Dowler of Route 2, Ashville.

By MRS. ELIZABETH JONES

A commemorative stamp marking the 100th anniversary of the founding of the National Grange was issued Monday in Washington, D. C.

Today was the date the stamp was issued in other parts of the nation. Fittingly enough John F. Dowler, Route 2, Ashville, was the first purchaser of a sheet of commemorative stamps at his post office in Ashville. This took place at 9 a. m. today.

Dowler, secretary of the Ohio Grange who has held this state office for 16 years, is the largest mailer and receiver of mail in the Ashville Post Office.

He joined the Grange 54 years ago in 1913. He is a member of the Scioto Grange and was chairman and treasurer of the Pomona Grange Building Committee. He was County Grange Deputy from 1951 to 1966.

According to Dowler, Ohio is the largest grange state in the nation. And he says that while the National Grange was formed in Washington D. C. 100 years ago the Ohio Grange followed five years later and is now 95 years old.

As building committee chairman he was a real factor in getting the 4-H and Grange Building at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds underway.

His leadership and untiring efforts were in many ways responsible for the building itself and for the fact that while it was dedicated in 1961 it was completely paid for and there was a mortgage burning ceremony in 1966.

Dowler is proud of the accomplishments of the National Grange organization during its century of existence. The Grange, he says, was solely responsible for the initiation of Rural Free Delivery and the parcel post system. The Grange fostered the creation of the Extension Service and has consistently supported appropriations necessary to meet the expanded needs of the service.

The Grange fathered legislation creating the Vo-Ag program and consistently supported advancement of the work since its establishment in 1916.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio conditions:

Ohio temperatures reached the 70s Monday before a cold front moved eastward through the area and cooler air began to pour into the state.

Cloudiness continued through the night and temperatures by this morning were mostly in the 40s. At dawn a few light showers were reported in the northeastern counties.

Strong winds and cloudiness were expected to hold maximum temperatures to the 40s or 50s today.

Some clearing is expected tonight and Wednesday and temperatures tonight will drop into the 30s generally. Some sunshine is forecast for Wednesday but it will continue cool.

CENTRAL OHIO — Clearing, colder tonight, low in mid 30s. Wednesday partly cloudy, cool, high in mid 50s.

New York's New Name Final Blow-Sweet City

NE WYORK (AP) — Over the years New York City has been declared, officially, to be everything from "A Summer Festival" to "Fun City."

Unofficially, it has been called other things too, most of them unprintable.

Now comes Mayor John V. Lindsay, determined to dispel the unprintables with a campaign to promote "Sweet City."

He means sweet as in nice. Lindsay wants everybody to be nice to everybody, at all times and in all circumstances.

"Courtesy begins in the home," declared Lindsay, and

Church Leaders Seek Increased Welfare Payment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Religious leaders Monday set a goal of a half million signatures in their drive to get welfare payments increased to 100 per cent of minimum standards.

The petitions, which will be sent to the governor and the General Assembly, will declare public support of the effort, and also a willingness to pay additional taxes to support the increased payments.

Plans for a petition campaign to seek higher welfare payments were announced earlier. It will begin April 30.

In an announcement last week the Catholic Conference of Ohio and the Ohio Council of Churches supported increased taxes to raise welfare payments.

They said about $35 million more annually would allow the state to bring payments up to 100 per cent of minimum standards.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

that's where he started. The first target of his courtesy campaign was his official family, the employees of the city.

Mind your telephone manners, Lindsay urged those on the city payroll, speaking especially to employees who deal directly with the public.

Don't let ourself be goaded into anger, he advised. Be as helpful as possible.

An Associated Press survey reveals that the idea, if not exactly soaring, is at least off the ground.

Informed of the survey's results, Lindsay replied: "You're kidding!"

It's true though. For example, there was a telephone call to the Transit Authority that in bygone days, might have set off a less than gentle exchange.

"I'd like to buy a subway train," the caller said.

"I think that could be arranged," the TA official replied politely. "But you'll have to lay your own tracks."

And a Health Department official kept his composure when a man insisted upon permission to keep a goat in his Manhattan apartment because he preferred goat's milk to cow's milk.

"The health code only permits dogs and cats," the department employee told him. "However, there are a number of stores that sell goat's milk and, if you'll give me your name and address, I'll be glad to send you a list of the stores in your neighborhood."

Lindsay's surprise at his campaign's successes might be due to the fact that, in the early day of his administration, he was apt to call a city department and say: "This is the mayor. How are things going?"

Dubious city employees were reported to have answered:

"Sure you're the mayor. I'm George Washington. It's nice talking to you."

Or "get lost you nut."

"They've learned not to do that any more," Lindsay said.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS WASHINGTON (AP) — A team of New Jersey doctors says a new technique for relieving a mother's labor pains has produced very promising results among 100 patients.

Dr. Lewis E. Savel of South Orange said Monday the technique involves a pain-killing anesthetic which a mother administers to herself through a face mask.

The anesthetic, he explained, is methoxyflurane, a liquid that rapidly changes into an inhalable gas which has been used previously to put women asleep during actual childbirth.

Savel, in a report co-authored by three colleagues, told the 15th annual clinical meeting of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists the technique eliminates or markedly reduces the use of opiates or hypnotic drugs ordinarily given to cope with labor pains.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Establishment of the John F. Kennedy birthplace in Brookline, Mass., as a national historic site apparently is approaching reality.

The House approved with minor amendments Monday a Senate-passed bill to authorize the secretary of the interior to acquire by donation the property and have it administered by the National Park Service.

The late president's father bought the house in 1914 and sold it in 1920 when his son was about 3½ years old. The home was reacquired by the Kennedy family last year and is being returned to its 1917 style and condition.

Rockwell in a radio interview said the day and age of the freedom of the driver, the era of rugged individualism on the road is coming to an end. More and more controls are coming—"It's just the way it has to be."

Tiger Golfers Drop Match At Logan

The Circleville golf team lost to Logan High School, 7-2, Monday in a dual match played at the hilly Logan Country Club.

The unfamiliar hilly course and high winds contributed to the high scores carded by the Tiger golfers.

Only Steve Edstrom, the number three golfer for the Tigers, was able to score any points for the team. Edstrom's 45 was the low score for Circleville and he earned two points. His opponent, P. Johnson, shot a 48.

Greg Peck, the number one golfer last night, had a 48. Billy Adkins shot a 47 and Pete Noble had a 47.

FOR LOGAN, G. Posten came up with a 42, C. Keller a 41. Dwight Hoop had 44.

Total team score for Circleville was 187. Logan's team total was 174. Today, the Tigers host the Teays Valley Golfers at the Pickaway Country Club.

2 Pickaway Athletes Make OC Track Team

Two Pickaway County student-athletes are members of the Otterbein college track team which opens its 1967 outdoor season today with a triangular meet at home against Denison and Marietta.

They are Bob Adkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Adkins, 238 E. Main St., Circleville; and Jim Garrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mostyn Garrett, Rt. 3, Mt. Sterling.

Adkins is a graduate of Circleville High School. He competed in the mile run and was second last year in the South Central Ohio League meet.

Garrett, who attended Westfall High School, ran the mile and the 880 in prep competition.

The Cardinals, under interim coach Dick Morrow, will run in six dual meets this season along with two triangular encounters and one quadrangular event. They also will participate in the Ohio Conference Relays and the Ohio Conference Track and Field Championships.

SF Warriors Are Hopeful For Recovery

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Coach Bill Sharman hopes his San Francisco Warriors find their shooting eyes and rebounding strength in the friendly Cow Palace gallery tonight.

Trailing 2-0 and with their backs to the wall in the best-of-7 final National Basketball Association playoff series, the Warriors are home to resume battle with Wilt Chamberlain and the Philadelphia 76ers.

"In baseball they say pitching is 80 per cent of the game and in basketball I'd say rebounding is 70 per cent," declared Sharman. "They killed us on the boards," 101 to 81.

He referred to the 126-95 lacing the Warriors took in Philadelphia on Sunday after losing the opener in overtime 141-135.

Winning two straight and the NBA title in San Francisco could be sweet revenge to 76er Coach Alex Hannum, who was fired as the Warrior coach last year.

The 7-foot, 1-inch Chamberlain, Most Valuable Player in the loop, might also gain extra satisfaction. The Warriors traded him to Philadelphia in 1965.

San Francisco had good news from the casualty contingent with word that 6-11 Nate Thurmond will play. The big pivotman, a key to the Warriors' rebounding, suffered an injured hip in Philadelphia on Sunday.

The hip still is sore but Nate will play. There's no such assurance for Fred Hetze, who teams with Rick Barry in the forward spots. Although X rays showed no fracture, his left ankle still is sore.

Barry also is troubled with a bum left ankle and shots and tape will have him ready to go although he lacks the balance which made him the league's leading scorer.

During the regular season, the 76ers held a 6-2 margin over San Francisco. On the other hand, the Warriors haven't lost this season in the Cow Palace, winning three regular season games and five playoff encounters.

Mets' Cardwell Gives Ex-Teammates Memento

PITTSBURGH (AP) — New York Met pitcher Don Cardwell is giving his old Pittsburgh Pirate teammates something to remember him by—headaches.

Cardwell, frequently the butt of jokes by Pirate fans for his inability to complete more than one game last season with the Bucs, went 7 2-3 innings Monday night and was credited with a 9-6 victory over the Pirates.

What's more, he slammed a home run over the 406-mark in left center, driving in two runs.

"I like to beat anybody, not only the Pirates," said the 31-year-old right-hander when asked if he received any particular kick in beating his former teammates.

Cardwell expressed some bitterness when he was traded to the Mets last December after four seasons with the Bucs, saying Pirate Manager Harry Walker didn't use him right last year.

"There's no longer any animosity between Walker and me," Cardwell said. "I said something and it was my opinion."

Last year, Cardwell appeared in 32 games, started 14, completed one and wound up with a 6-6 record with the Pirates who finished third in the national league race.

Although it's early in the season, the veteran pitcher seems stronger on the mound as evidenced in Monday night's performance and in his season opener last Wednesday, also against the Pirates.

In that game, Cardwell pitched like a winner, but the Mets played like losers, committing five errors. He held the Pirates at bay until the ninth inning when they broke a 3-3 tie and won 6-3, handing Cardwell the loss.

The story was reversed Monday night with the Mets jumping off to a 9-3 lead at the end of five innings. The Pirates, tabbed by the oddsmakers as the National league team to beat this year, committed four errors in those five innings and over-all used five pitchers who gave up 11 hits.

Cardwell's homer, the 15th of his career, came in the second with Jerry Grote on with a double.

Willie Stargell smacked a two-run homer in the eighth off Cardwell. Ron Taylor came on in relief to preserve the victory despite giving up a pinch-hit homer to Manny Jimenez with two outs in the ninth.

The game was the only one played Monday in the majors. The others, Chicago at Philadelphia, Washington at New York and Cleveland at Minnesota, were rained out.

Errors Cause Braves' Loss To Piketon

Logan Elm committed eight errors Monday in a Scioto Valley Conference baseball game won by visiting Piketon High School, 10-7.

Four of the errors came in the top of the third inning when the Red Streaks scored three runs. In the sixth inning, two more errors, two singles a sacrifice fly and a double accounted for five runs.

The other two runs for Piketon came in the fifth.

Trailing 10-2 going into the final frame, the Braves almost rallied for a win, but time ran out after they had scored five runs.

THE BRAVES short-lived rally was started when Bob Collins was hit by a pitched ball. Dan Fausnaugh and Russ Merrin singled, with the latter driving in Collins.

A walk loaded the bases and an error by Piketon let in another run.

Than Jim Moorehead smashed a two run double. The last run of the inning was singled in by Dan Dahl.

Dale Jenne started on the mound for the Braves, walking one, fanning seven and allowing five hits. He was relieved by Merrin in the sixth. Merrin whiffed three and allowed two hits.

The Braves are 1-2 in the SVC and have a 1-4 overall record. Tonight Piketon plays at Westfall under the lights. Logan Elm's next game is Friday at Unioto.

Tiger Golfers Drop Match At Logan

The Circleville golf team lost to Logan High School, 7-2, Monday in a dual match played at the hilly Logan Country Club. The unfamiliar hilly course and high winds contributed to the high scores carded by the Tiger golfers.

Only Steve Edstrom, the number three golfer for the Tigers, was able to score any points for the team. Edstrom's 45 was the low score for Circleville and he earned two points. His opponent, P. Johnson, shot a 48.

Greg Peck, the number one golfer last night, had a 48. Billy Adkins shot a 47 and Pete Noble had a 47.

FOR LOGAN, G. Posten came up with a 42, C. Keller a 41, Dwight Hoop had 44.

Total team score for Circleville was 187. Logan's team total was 174. Today, the Tigers host the Teays Valley Golfers at the Pickaway Country Club.

2 Pickaway Athletes Make OC Track Team

Two Pickaway County student-athletes are members of the Otterbein college track team which opens its 1967 outdoor season today with a triangular meet at home against Denison and Marietta.

They are Bob Adkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Adkins, 238 E. Main St., Circleville; and Jim Garrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mostyn Garrett, Rt. 3, Mt. Sterling.

Adkins is a graduate of Circleville High School. He competed in the mile run and was second last year in the South Central Ohio League meet.

Garrett, who attended Westfall High School, ran the mile and the 880 in prep competition.

The Cardinals, under interim coach Dick Morrow, will run in six dual meets this season along with two triangular encounters and one quadrangular event. They also will participate in the Ohio Conference Relays and the Ohio Conference Track and Field Championships.

PITCHING—Don Cardwell stopped Pittsburgh for 7 2-3 innings and hit a two-run homer, lifting the New York Mets to a 9-6 victory over the Pirates.

HITTING—Ed Kranepool drove in three runs with two hits as the Mets beat Pittsburgh 9-6.

HELP FOR YANKS—Infielder John Kennedy of the Dodgers now is a Yankee, with the plan to play him at shortstop. Kennedy has been a utility third sacker with the Dodgers, started his career with Washington Senators.

TV Foursome Gains Victory

The Teays Valley golf team defeated Groveport, 7-2, Monday at the Groveport Country Club.

Winning two points for the Vikings were Ron Leatherwood, with a score of 40; Mike Binion with 42, Bob Welsh with 48.

Mark Leatherwood had a 47 for the Vikings.

For Groveport, Kurt Baker won two points with a score of 41. Dwight Hp had 44, Fred Zarbaugh 50 and Bubbie Franks 51.

IN A MATCH of reserve teams, Groveport won 6-3. For Teays Valley, Jim Pribble gained two points with a 48. Other Viking scores were Bill Welsh, 50; Mark Coon, 51; and Lee Curry, 59.

For the Groveport reserve team, Dave Daley won two points with a 46; Bob Nichols won two points with a 54; Richard Franks won one point with a 52; Dick Ernest shot a 55. The Vikings will meet Circleville at the Pickaway Country Club today.

CHS-MTHS Tilt Rained Out Again

Circleville's Game with Miami Trace was postponed again by wet grounds and has tentatively been rescheduled Monday it was announced today by Coach Chuck Hill.

Hill also noted a change in the schedule. A tilt originally slated with Teays Valley today was canceled.

Instead of the game at Teays Valley, Circleville will travel to Pickerington tonight after school.

SF Warriors Are Hopeful For Recovery

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Coach Bill Sharman hopes his San Francisco Warriors find their shooting eyes and rebounding strength in the friendly Cow Palace gallery tonight.

Trailing 2-0 and with their backs to the wall in the best-of-7 final National Basketball Association playoff series, the Warriors are home to resume battle with Wilt Chamberlain and the Philadelphia 76ers.

"In baseball they say pitching is 80 per cent of the game and in basketball I'd say rebounding is 70 per cent," declared Sharman. "They killed us on the boards," 101 to 81.

He referred to the 128-95 lacing the Warriors took in Philadelphia on Sunday after losing the opener in overtime 141-135.

Winning two straight and the NBA title in San Francisco could be sweet revenge to 76er Coach Alex Hannum, who was fired as the Warrior coach last year.

The 7-foot, 1-inch Chamberlain, Most Valuable Player in the loop, might also gain extra satisfaction. The Warriors traded him to Philadelphia in 1965.

San Francisco had good news from the casualty contingent with word that 6-11 Nate Thurmond will play. The big pivotman, a key to the Warriors' rebounding, suffered an injured hip in Philadelphia on Sunday.

The hip still is sore but Nate will play. There's no such assurance for Fred Hetze, who teams with Rick Barry in the forward spots. Although X rays showed no fracture, his left ankle still is sore.

Barry also is troubled with a bum left ankle ut shots and tape will have him ready to go although he lacks the balance which made him the league's leading scorer.

During the regular season, the 76ers held a 6-2 margin over San Francisco. On the other hand, the Warriors haven't lost this season in the Cow Palace, winning three regular season games and five playoff encounters.

Clay Says He'll Stand On Religious Beliefs

CHICAGO (AP) — If he loses his legal battle, which sagged under a Supreme Court ruling Monday, heavyweight champion Cassius Clay says he will appear at his scheduled April 28 Army induction in Houston and

"stand on my religious beliefs," he should be exempt because he is a Black Muslim minister. The court also denied a request to order Judge Gordon to impanel a three-judge court to consider the original case.

Clay, whose pleas for exemption as a Black Muslim minister have been rejected by draft officials, said that his religion forbids fighting and killing in wars. "I will stand up for my religious beliefs even if it means I am put in jail for 50 years or am stood up in front of machine guns," he said. "I am ready to suffer for my religion and take any punishment. I pray five times a day and am calling on Allah."

Asked if his appearance for induction would bring his refusal to take the oath, Clay replied, "I'm not saying that, but I've made my decision and I will give it at that time. You can make your own conclusions when I say I will stand on my religious beliefs and will be ready to face any punishment in order to follow them."

The U.S. Supreme Court denied Monday without comment Clay's request for an injunction to block his April 28 induction. This was followed in Cincinnati with the 6th U.S. Circuit of Appeals turning down an injunction to halt the induction pending an appeal from a decision by Judge James F. Gordon of U.S. District Court in Owensboro, Ky. Judge Gordon had refused to grant Clay's plea in March that he should be exempt because he is a Black Muslim minister.

The court also denied a request to order Judge Gordon to impanel a three-judge court to consider the original case.

Clay's attorney, Hayden Covington of New York, had claimed that a three-judge court was necessary to consider constitutional questions raised in Clay's behalf.

Covington indicated legal maneuvering still was in the works. "This is only the 10th round of a 15-round decision and I can tell you definitely there will be 15 rounds," said Covington after the Supreme Court ruling.

Covington said he will appeal again to the Supreme Court on Wednesday. He said he would ask the court to reconsider its decision.

Complains About Pornography

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—Sandusky has a pornography problem "big enough for the grand jury to look into," according to James J. Clancy, legal counsel for the Citizens for Decent Literature, Inc. Clancy told an audience at Sandusky High School Sunday he was able to purchase what he called "hard-core pornography" at some drugstores and news stands here. "You have to get behind your prosecutor," Clancy said. "You have to push him, maybe even kick him."

Onaway, a 5-year-old pacer owned by R. R. Driscoll of Halifax, N. S., won 44 harness races in 89 starts last year.

Reds Start This Season In Fine Form

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Cincinnati hitters are swinging a hot bat — one reason for the Reds' flying start in the new baseball season.

The team batting average is .323, the Reds have slugged 10 homers and scored 30 runs while winning five of six games.

A year ago at this stage, Cincinnati was 1-5 and the Reds never recovered from that miserable start. But this year's club has impressed Manager Walter Alston, whose Los Angeles Dodgers open their home season tonight against the Reds. "I like what I've seen of the Reds this year," Alston said. "You've got to like a club with power, speed and good defense. The Reds have all that, and from all indications they are going to have improved pitching."

Manager Dave Bristol named right-hander Milt Pappas to try to stretch the Reds' winning streak to four games. He'll be opposed by southpaw Claude Osteen as the Dodgers seek their first victory of 1967.

Pappas won his initial start, beating Houston 5-4.

Tony Perez with a .444 average and Deron Johnson's .440 top the Reds regular at this early stage. Johnson has four homers and seven runs batted in.

Don Pavletich has appeared in only one game, but is batting 1.000. In Sunday's second game against the San Francisco Giants, he slugged two doubles and a triple in three trips.

Pete Rose, Vada Pinson, Leo Cardenas and Tommy Helms have been coming up with timely hits.

Bristol plans to pitch Sammy Ellis Wednesday night and close out the Dodger series with young Gary Nolan Thursday night.

Toledo Diocese Installs Bishop John Donovan Today

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Clergy and laymen from many parts of the nation and world were drawn here today for the installation of the fifth bishop of the Toledo Diocese of the Roman Catholic Church.

The Most Rev. John Donovan was to be installed as bishop of the 19-county, 280,000-member diocese in ceremonies in Toledo's Rosary Cathedral.

Expected to attend were 33 American Catholic bishops and 450 other clergy from the United States, Rome, Nigeria, Puerto Rico and Canada.

Bishop Donovan succeeds Bishop George Rehring who retired after 16 years as head of the Toledo Diocese.

Bishop Donovan, identified with the progressive element in the Roman Catholic Church, has championed human rights, involvement of laity in church affairs and similar concerns.

He was to deliver his first spiritual message to the Toledo area at the Mass closing the three-part installation ceremony.

A procession to the cathedral would be followed by a diocesan notary reading the formal Vatican letters appointing Bishop Donovan. He would then be escorted to the cathedral throne by Bishop Rehring and Archbishop Karl J. Alter of Cincinnati, who preceded Rehring as bishop of Toledo.

Bishop Donovan was born in Chatham, Ont., but moved with his mother to Detroit after his father died. He attended high school and college at Sacred Heart Seminary, Detroit. He studied theology at North American College in Rome and was ordained in 1935.

Bishop Donovan then returned to Detroit as an assistant pastor. In 1937 he was appointed secretary to the late Archbishop Edward Mooney, and two years later became a domestic prelate. In 1951 he became chancellor of the Detroit Archdiocese. He was consecrated as an auxiliary bishop in 1954.

Suburbia's Privileged Kids Termed As Being Badly Shortchanged

NEW YORK (AP) — Are the children of suburbia—growing up in pockets of affluence and a likeness—being properly prepared to live in a world of people who are different in nationality, race, religion and economic background?

For four years a group of teachers, sociologists and researchers, supervised by Dr. Alice Miel of Columbia University, concentrated on a typical American suburb to find the answer. The results of their study, made public today, add up to an emphatic "no."

Although the parents say they moved to the suburbs in the first place "for the children" and "to have better schools," the report states, "in one aspect of their education suburban children are underprivileged."

"Though other races, other nationalities, other generations have a great deal to teach them, there is little in their education, formal or otherwise, to familiarize them with the rich diversity of American life."

"In this sense, despite the many enviable features of their environment, the children of suburbia are being short-changed."

The study focuses on a community not far from New York city which is called New Village. Dr. Miel refuses to disclose its real identity, but says it strongly resembles suburbs around the country.

Growing up in New Village means a youngster has practically no encounter with people different from himself. His life and social contacts are almost totally controlled by his parents, whether or not the parents realize this.

"He depends on his mother to hauffer him wherever he goes. As a result, he knows little beyond his own home, the very similar homes of friends, the school and the inside of the family car; he is largely insulated from any chance introduction to a life different from his own," says the report.

The researchers observed that the children learned to be hypocritical about differences at a very early age, that their supposed tolerance was only skin-deep. "The prejudices of their society were still very much with them, but they had had it drilled into them that it was 'not nice' to express such feelings."

One hopeful thing, the report says was that a good many parents united in desiring more emphasis on certain kinds of human difference, such as their children learning about nationality differences and achieving respect for other faiths.

"Many parents and teachers were found eager to bridge religious differences; many recognized, however uneasily, the need for discussion of racial differences. But with a few notable exceptions, neither parents nor schools were facing up to economic inequality."

Knowing nothing about people less well off than themselves the study points out as one of the "most appalling" gaps in the children's learning. "Moreover, their attitude toward the less fortunate was almost insufferably patronizing—a response that was not surprising in view of the great emphasis placed on material wealth in New Village, as in most suburbs."

The report by Dr. Miel, with writer Edwin Kiester Jr., was published as a pamphlet titled, "The Shortchanged Children of Suburbia" by the Institute of Human Relations Press of the American Jewish Committee. It profiles the suburban child this way: he is "likely to be a materialist and somewhat of a hypocrite. In addition, he tends to be a striver in school, a conformist, and above all a believer in being 'nice,' polite, clean and tidy. He is often conspicuously self-centered."

In all these respects, says the report, he patterns his attitudes and goals chiefly after those of his parents.

New Village teachers handled matters of human likeness and difference in these ways: some avoided the subject entirely. Some practiced "Afghanistanism"—declining over the conditions of the heathen in the far-off corners of the world while ignoring the unsolved problems in one's own backyard. Where they were aware of the need for social learning, they seemed "overwhelmed by the difficulty of discussing such delicate matters," says the report.

Dr. Miel indicts the schools for often neglecting opportunities to help children judge the worth of people; for not developing self-confidence in the children but instead tending to make them feel only views conforming with the majority should be expressed; for not giving them help in managing their own learning—"too often they accepted the world of authority without question."

In the report she includes an action program for schools and communities that would (1) develop higher thought processes and encourage children to plumb controversial subjects, (2) Foster understanding of the student's own community, (3) Help children attain some insight into their own values and those of others, and (4) Develop an emphatic understanding of others.

Dr. Miel, who is professor of education and chairman of the Department of Curriculum and Teaching at Teachers College, Columbia University, said in an interview that she doesn't expect spectacular results from the report. She does expect some resentment from parents. But she hopes it will encourage parents, teachers and communities to do something about the problem.

"It's a survival question for ourselves, in addition to the humanitarian aspect," she says.

Habeas Corpus Not Justified By Pregnancy

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — "Pregnancy cannot be allowed to become a sanctuary for illegal activities," a judge has ruled in turning down a request by a woman prisoner for a writ of habeas corpus to win freedom for her unborn child.

Mrs. Richard Schnor, 28, Cedar Rapids, jailed here since March 15 for parole violation and passing a false check, contended she was pregnant and that authorities were holding her unborn child illegally.

The prosecution retorted it was Mrs. Schnor — not the sheriff — who was holding the child and they would gladly release the infant if Mrs. Schnor would produce it.

District Judge William R. Eads said Monday if he granted the writ, it would set a precedent that could result in freedom for major female criminals if they were pregnant.

Mrs. Schnor, mother of three children, was ordered by the judge to finish her term for forgery in the Iowa Women's Reformatory.
